SHOT INTRUDER AND KILLED HIM

William Hassett Slain by Robert L. Pack.

MONEY WAS BEING STOLEN

PACK WAS IN HIS STORE AND PURSUED THE ROBBER.

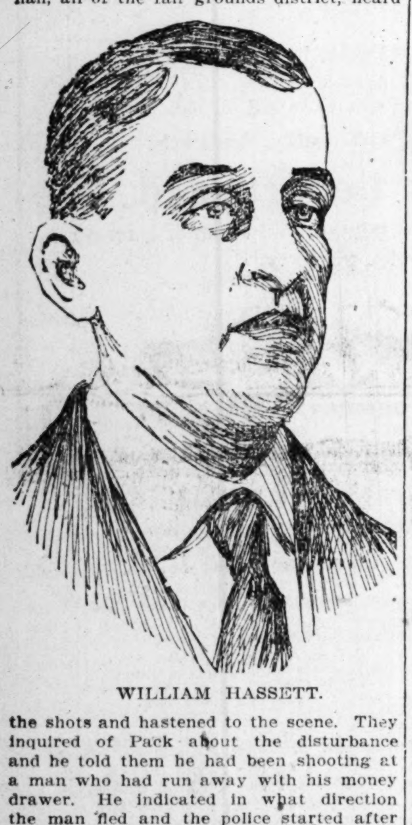
Near the Body of Hassett, When Found Near by, Was a Money Drawer, Which Pack Identified as His Property.

William Hassett, 23 years old, employed as a landscape gardener by Bruns & Wash of 4246 Natural Bridge road, was shot twice through the head and instantly killed at 1 o'clock Monday morning by Robert L. Pack, keeper of a combination grocery and saloon at 4122A Natural Bridge road.

Pack says Hassett was attempting to run away with a money drawer which he had snatched from the saloon counter while Pack was in the grocery department of his establishment serving drinks.

According to his story, Hassett made considerable noise as he slipped the drawer from its place, attracting the proprietor's attention. Pack grabbed his revolver and ran into the saloon in time to see the intruder running through a side door.

He fired at him and pursued him to the street. Hassett ran west on Natural Bridge road and Pack pursued him, shooting at him when he could see him. After following him 50 feet he gave up the chase and ran back to his grocery, which was unguarded. He did not suspect that any of his bullets had gone true to their mark.



WILLIAM HASSETT.

Patrolmen Phillips, Crimmins and Sheehan, all of the fair grounds district, heard the shots and hastened to the scene. They inquired of Pack about the disturbance and he told them he had been shooting at a man who had run away with his money drawer. He indicated in what direction the man fled and the police started after him.

They had run about 150 feet when they stumbled over the body of a man. Upon examination they saw he was dead and that two bullets had pierced his head.

About 25 feet from where the body lay a money drawer, which was identified by Pack as his property, was found. Scattered about it was several dollars in bills and silver.

Pack said the body was that of the man he had fired at and inquiry in the neighborhood by the officers resulted in it being identified as that of Hassett. The police say the dead man has a sister by the name of Mrs. O'Hearn living in the neighborhood of Fifteenth and Carr streets.

Pack was taken to the Fair Grounds Station, where he was held until Monday at noon, when he was sent to the Deer Street Station. Sergt. Hurst of the Fair Grounds Station says Pack will be released as soon as a thorough investigation of the shooting can be made.

"The story told by Pack is undoubtedly true," he said to the Post-Dispatch. "All the circumstances corroborate it convincingly."

Pack operates the saloon and grocery in partnership with William Klatt. They opened their place three weeks ago. Pack is married and lives with his wife and three children over his place of business.

"I never saw Hassett before he entered my place last night," said Pack. "Two men were in the grocery department drinking beer, which I had served from the bar, when I heard someone touch my money drawer. I grabbed my revolver and went after him. I fired four shots altogether.

"I presume I hit him with the last two, for he could not have run so far if he had been hit earlier. All the shots were practically fired at random, because there was little or no light. I never saw more than the faintest outline of him and I was not surprised that he appeared to get away.

"I would have followed him further, but he disappeared completely and there was nobody at my store. So I called for the police and went back. The police answered in a few minutes and I was surprised when they told me I had killed a man."

FOR ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR

Call Issued for Meeting of National Commissioners at Southern Hotel On April 23.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Hay has issued a call for the first meeting of the government commissioners of the St. Louis World's Fair at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, on April 23.

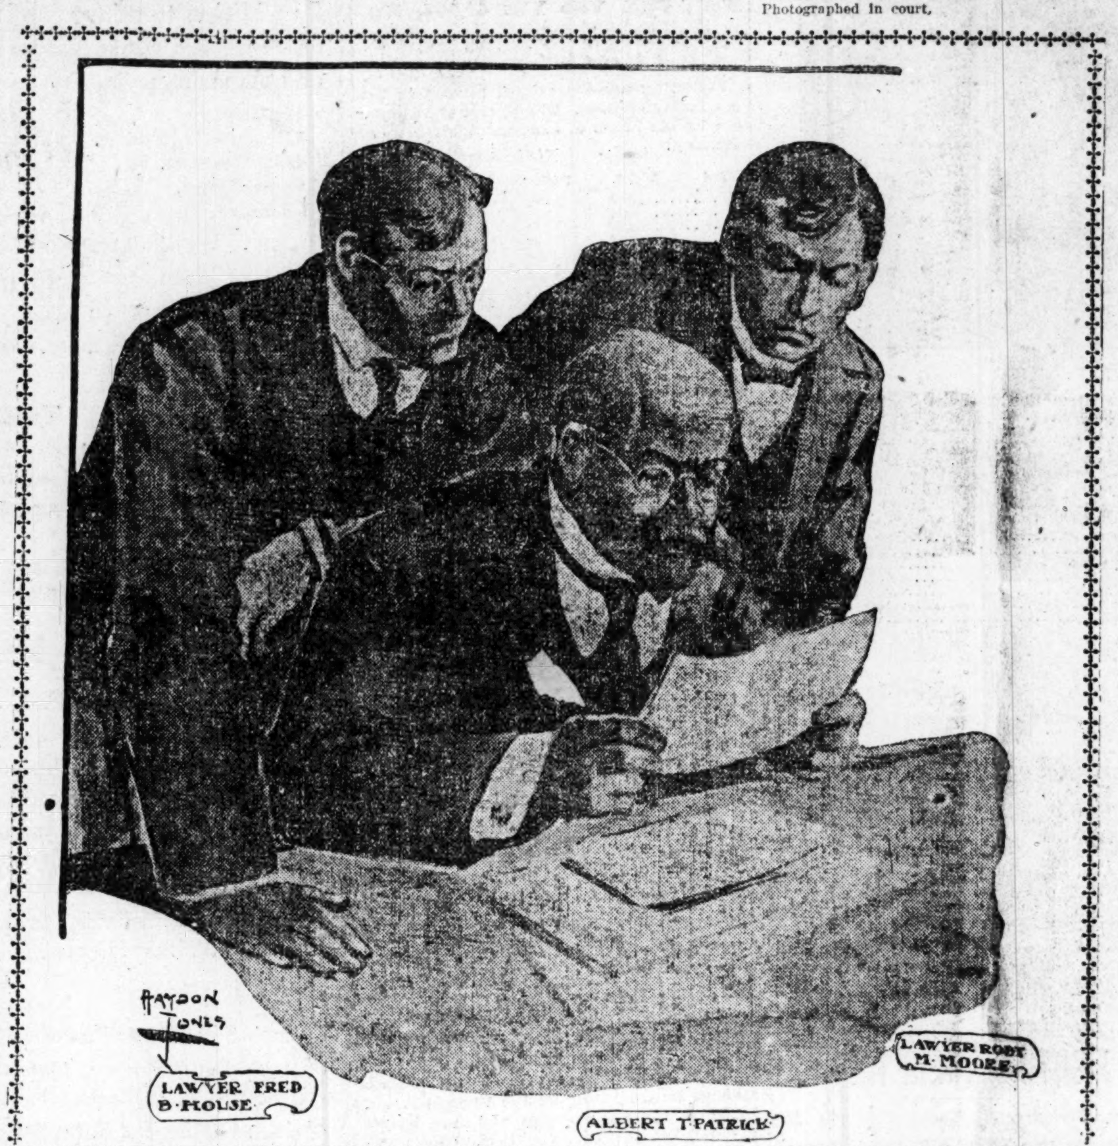
Mr. Wells States His Expenses.

Mayor-elect Rolla Wells filed his statement of election expenses with the Board of Election Commissioners Monday morning and received his certificate of election as mayor.

Mr. Wells certified that the total expenses of his campaign amounted to $941.97, which he divided between the two items of livery and advertising.

LAWYER ALBERT T. PATRICK AND HIS COUNSEL

Photographed in court.



PATRICK NOT TO BE A WITNESS

The Lawyer Will Not Testify at This Trial.

DECLARES JONES HAS LIED

THE VALET DID NOT KILL MILLIONAIRE RICE.

Says the Object of the Prosecution Is to Have Him (Patrick) Held in Prison Without Bail.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Albert T. Patrick will not be a witness in his own behalf in the preliminary examination to be resumed tomorrow. The present hearing will determine whether or not Patrick is to be held on the charge of conspiracy with Valet Jones to murder William March Rice.

Patrick, for the first time since his arrest, has talked freely about the case. He says:

"Jones never killed William M. Rice. Had he done so he would have testified to it, especially as the district atttorney has promised him immunity; nor would his counsel, even though provided by Capt. Baker, have permitted him to do so. His confidence is due to the fact that W. M. Rice, at the age of 84, died of heart failure, as did his brother, F. A. Rice, Saturday, at the age of 70, and there will never be any proof otherwise.

"The only crime of which Jones is guilty is that of conspiring against the 1900 will and that of perjury in the present proceedings. His fairy story is the result of a collaboration with Capt. James A. Baker, Jones' lawyer, Mr. Battle, who is hired by Baker, Assistant District Attorney Osborne and Prof. Witthaus, the professional expert whose report Osborne for the last six months has been expecting in a few days, and who swore that Rice died of mercurial poisoning if he did not die of something else.

"The object of Jones' story is to have me held in prison, pending the will litigation. I have already been in prison six months on the forgery charge, without even being indicted, and I do not believe that there is any serious intention to try me on a criminal charge before a jury.

"It would take but little corroboration to convict Jones upon his own confession, but it would take a great deal to convict me upon Jones' accusation. If I am held or indicted for murder, Jones will certainly be also, and I would surely be acquitted, but in his effort to have himself corroborated he might be convicted, innocent though he is, and then he would surely be electrocuted, for no hand could save him.

"Jones is staking his life upon the ability of the handwriting experts to discredit Rice's signature, which Jones saw him write, and which he shows by his numerous statements and uncertain testimony that he knows Rice signed.

"Jones may rest assured that those for whom he has outlawed himself from mankind will abandon him when they can no longer use him.

"As to my own position, I can only say that I will be vindicated.

The two wills signed by William Marsh Rice were on the calendar before Surrogate Fitzgerald today for the setting of dates for the trials in the contests. Counsel for Albert T. Patrick, the Rice heirs, the Rice institute in Texas and for the temporary administrator for the estate, were in court. Counsel for Patrick and the Rice heirs asked for an adjournment until June. Counsel for the temporary administrator asked that the case be put on at once for trial.

Surrogate Fitzgerald adjourned the hearing until next Monday or until the close of the proceedings against Patrick before Justice Jerome on the murder charge.

THINK IT WORK OF INCENDIARY

Oldest Grain Elevator in St. Louis Destroyed.

ORIGIN OF FIRE A MYSTERY

DOOR WAS LOCKED ON INSIDE TO EXCLUDE THE WATCHMAN.

By the Time an Entrance Was Effected by Force the Flames Had Communicated to the Contents of the Big Building.

Incidents connected with the destruction by fire Sunday afternoon of the grain elevator at the foot of Biddle street, owned by the St. Louis Elevator and Storage Co., indicate that the fire was of incendiary origin.

At noon, an hour before the fire was discovered, three boys were seated on the big wooden platform on the river's edge, to the east of the building. One of the trio was smokeng a cigarette. They were seen by Dan Webber, the watchman, who had received instructions to permit no loitering on this platform. He ordered the boys away.

He entered the elevator, going through the boiler-room door. At 12:30 he stepped outside through this same door. A few minutes later he saw the same trio of boys. He followed them south on the railroad tracks for a block and then returned to the elevator to make his customary tour of the building.

When he reached the boiler-room door through which he had come only a few minutes before and had left unlocked, he found he could not open it. At the same time he detected the odor of smoke. He hastened around to the east side of the building and through a window of the oil room he could see a blaze. It was burning fiercely and appeared to have been in progress for ten minutes. He sounded the alarm and then seized an ax and broke open the boiler-room door. The place was ablaze then and the flames beat him back.

Webber cannot explain how the door came to be locked. It was usually left unlocked and was the door generally used to enter and leave the building. No one is known to have been in the building when the fire started.

The fire started in the oil room in the northeast corner. There were no old rags in the room. The apartment was inspected by insurance men last Friday and some old clothing saturated with oil was thrown into the river. Webber was in the oil room a few minutes before he discovered the boys fishing on the platform. Nothing was apparently wrong then.

The elevator was the oldest in St. Louis and only one was larger. The building was 175 feet high, 100 feet wide and 450 feet long. The thoroughly seasoned timbers burned like tinder.

The officers of the St. Louis Elevator and Storage Co. are: H. C. Haarstick, president; E. C. Stanard, vice-president; Frank Goodnow, general manager. J. B. M. Kehlor, George R. Lockwood and Sam D. Capen are heavy stockholders. The building was insured for $90,000 and the grain owned by the company was insured for $550,000. Other grain on storage was insured for $50,000. The grain contained in the elevator was wheat and corn below No. 2 grade. It was rendered unfit for anything save for food for hogs and chickens.

The elevator was built by the St. Louis Elevator Co. in 1870. Its management afterwards consolidated with the United Elevator Co., which includes the Merchants, Central A, Central B, Union Depot, Venice, Valley and others. A few years later another change was made and the Consolidated Elevator Co. was formed. A year ago last August it was bought in by the bondholders. The original cost of the building was $150,000.

President Haarstick said that it was too early to give a statement as to the probability of the rebuilding of the elevator. Directors Lockwood, Capen and Bates said that a meeting of the directors would be called soon and the plans for rebuilding would be discussed. Most of the directors are reported to be in favor of rebuilding.

ENDED HIS LIFE WITH CYANIDE

Broker Frederick Cochran Died in Clayton.

WAS FOUND DYING BY HIS STEP-DAUGHTER.

Was Apparently in Good Spirits a Short Time Before He Went to His Room to Complete His Toilet.

Frederick Gove Cochran, aged 55 years, committed suicide at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning at his residence in Clayton, on St. Louis avenue, between Bonhomme avenue and the Colorado railroad tracks.

He was a broker on 'change, with an office in St. Louis. Business troubles are supposed to have induced him to end his life.

Sunday Mr. Cochran called on his friend, J. W. Alexander, a shoe dealer at Clayton, but gave no particular evidence of despondency, although several who saw him noted the fact that he was not looking as well as usual.

Monday morning he had breakfast with his wife and stepdaughter, Miss Ella Cochran, who is known by the family name. Later he sat on the front porch and read a newspaper. He accompanied his wife to the fowl yard to view the chickens and then returned to the house and went upstairs, presumably to dress to go to the city.

A short time later Miss Ella Cochran went upstairs. Hearing stentorious breathing in Mr. Cochran's room, she entered and found him lying on the bed, apparently dying.

Dr. G. C. Eggers of Clayton was hastily summoned, but when he arrived Mr. Cochran was dead.

On the floor was a paper which had contained a powder, which Druggist Sudduth of Clayton says was cyanide of potassium. It bore the name of a St. Louis drug firm.

On the table was found a letter addressed to Mrs. Cochran. The contents she will reveal only to Coroner Armstrong at the inquest, which was set for Monday afternoon.

Mr. Cochran resided in St. Louis until three years ago, on Labadie avenue.

His brother, George J. Cochran, of 4369 West Belle place, is a bookkeeper at the State National Bank.

GEN. CLAY INCOMMUNICADO

He Is Holding the Fort at His Castle With Only His Immediate Retainers About Him.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 8.—Gen. Cassius M. Clay is incommunicado, by his own choice, in his castle home, White Hall. Jim Bolin, his bodyguard, is the only man that was admitted into White Hall by Gen. Clay. The old man will allow Bolin to come in only long enough to bring his meals, which were today prepared for him by Mrs. Bolin, who lives with her husband in a stone cabin about 100 yards from the mansion.

Yesterday Gen. Clay intimated that he would live on a supply of canned goods which he had stored away, but changed his mind this morning, and, summoning Bolin to him with the accustomed yell which he uses in calling his employes, he ordered Bolin to have his wife prepare his meals.

In spite of the fact that he is 91 years of age, Gen. Clay declares that he is working on the second volume of his autobiography, which will contain the secrets of his private life, and is to be published only after his death. The first volume, a record of his public life, has already appeared, but the circulation is limited, as only Clay's intimate friends received copies.

PROBABLE STRIKE INVOLVING ARMY OF MEN

Jersey Central Employes Will Vote on the Proposition.

DISPUTE IS OVER WAGES

CHIEF OF UNION FAILED TO OBTAIN INTERVIEW WITH THE MANAGERS.

Vice-President Warren Suggests a Plan for Arbitration by a Joint Committee Which May Avoid a Conflict.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Neither employers nor employes have made decisive movements in the wage dispute that may terminate with a strike on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. It is expected that the men will confer within the next 24 hours and by vote agree upon a plan of action.

It is difficult to take the measure of the sentiment of the moving army of men that a railway system employs, but as far as it can be sounded on the Central the men seem moved by a spirit of conservatism and to be inclined to refrain from striking until eevry resource of conference and arbitration has been exhausted.

The withdrawal from the city of the chiefs of the brotherhoods of railway men after an unsuccessful attempt to secure a conference with the officials of the railroad restores the dispute to one directly between the company and its men.

Charles H. Warren, vice-president of the company, speaking for the railroad, made this statement today: "The brotherhood chiefs evidently do not know that it is a custom of railroads to close their general offices on Saturday afternoon. We were closed in usual custom on Saturday afternoon and in addition to that I was called away by other business. I think, under these circumstances, it was somewhat unusual for them to expect me to meet them at the time named by them. We are prepared to be entirely reasonable about the matter. We want no dispute with our employes and are prepared to pay them the wages paid by other railways in the vicinity.

"We have told them that we will take any seven railroads they designate and, with a joint committee or a committee to which we and they shall name outside men, make an investigation of the pay of the men employed by the m and abided by the results of the showing made. We have also asked our men to point out any specific case of treatment that is unfair and agreed to right any injustice that may be shown. I do not know of anything that will be done today, nor do I know of any plan for a conference.

Grand Master of Railway Trainmen.

ARRANGING FOR A CONTEST

Meriwether Forces Will Make a Legal Fight and Enter State Politics in Opposition to the Established Parties.

The outcome of the meeting of the ward chairmen, precinct and block committeemen and other representative men of the Public Ownership League, Sunday afternon at old Masonic Hall, was a two-fold decision, first to contest the election of Rolla Wells and the entire Democratic ticket, and second to enter state politics.

Lee Meriwether, late candidate for mayor, was the principal speaker and was received with great enthusiasm. Frank S. Kowalski presided and W. C. Guels was secretary. Among the other speakers were W. A. Brandenburger, Dr. J. M. Ball, K. E. Keller, M. J. Murphy, Charles J. Maurer and Harry J. Cantwell.

It was anounced that several thousand dollars had already been subscribed to defray the cost of the proposed election contests. The precinct committees in each of the 28 wards will meet Wednesday night to raise additional funds.

Resolutions were adopted, denouncing the Nesbit law, and asserting that through its operation gross frauds had been committed in the election last Tuesday. Through this means and the police ring, it is claimed, the election of Rolla Wells was made possible.

Members of the Municipal Ownership party have pledged themselves not to accept office under the Democratic administration, and it was decided that any of the Meriwether committeemen found guilty of accepting office from the Democratic machine should be expelled from the organization.

Plans were laid to effect an organization in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Sedalia and other Missouri towns, with a view to participating in municipal elections and nominating candidates for the state Senate and House of Representatives in 1902. If the success of the party warrants it a full state ticket will be nominated in 1904.

TRYING TO CORNER ZINC

Representatives of Syndicate Said to Be Headed by J. Pierpont Morgan Want to Buy Missouri-Kansas Output.

John Arthur Rice, said to be a representative of J. Pierpont Morgan, left St. Louis for the East Saturday night. His visit here was for the purpose of furthering a deal involving the purchase of the entire output of spelter, or pig zinc, of the Missouri-Kansas district, by a syndicate said to be headed by Mr. Morgan.

E. W. Humphrey of Chicago, who is said to have been promoting the deal, is at the Planters' hotel.

President J. S. Rodgers of the Lanyon Zinc Co., said to the Post-Dispatch Monday morning: "I have been approached by gentlemen who said they desired to form a syndicate to purchase the output of spelter of the Missouri-Kansas district, but on account of absence from the city I have had little time to devote to their propositions.

There are six or seven smelters in the zinc district, distributed over the coal and natural gas fields of southwest Missouri and southeast Kansas. The total value of the spelter produced in the course of a year runs into millions of dollars.

The plan proposed by Messrs. Rice and Humphreys is said to contemplate the purchase at a contract price of all the spelter produced for a term of years. As the Missouri-Kansas district produces seven-eighths of the zinc of the entire country, this would give them a practical monopoly on the supply.

Local zinc men say this is not the first attempt that has been made to corner the spelter output. All previous attempts have failed because of the certainty that the ore producers would have to be reckoned with.

FOOTPADS WERE ACTIVE.

Three Men Obtain Warrants Against Their Alleged Assailants.

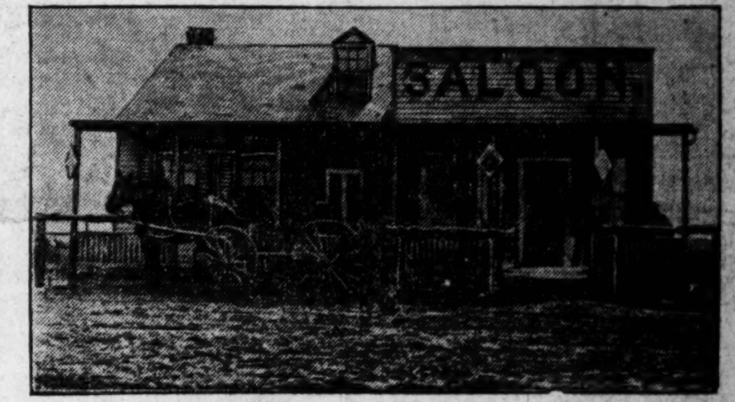
Highwaymen worked overtime Saturday night and Sunday and the echo was heard in the warrant office Monday.

Robert Smith and Aaron Williams, colored, were charged with highway robbery. The prosecuting witness was Albert Dietsel, a florist of 6123 Easton avenue. He claimed that he was waylaid and robbed of $6 at the mouth of an alley on Morgan street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets at 4:30 o'clock Monday morning.

August H. Manske obtained a warrant against Daniel Worneck. It was alleged that Worneck stopped Manske at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning near Sixth street and Lucas avenue and robbed him of $3.

George Gerrichs of 1424 Biddle street, employed in a grocery store, said that while he was on his way home, at 11 o'clock Saturday night, he was assaulted by four men, who held revolvers at his head and robbed him of his week's salary. James Nolan was arrested by the police and was identified by Gerrichs. A warrant charging robbery in the first degree was issued.

JUSTICE HOLDS COURT AND MARRIES COUPLES AT HIS BARROOM TABLE



Exterior of 'Squire Touchett's Saloon at Centerville Station, Inside of Which He Has Held Court for Seventeen Years.

Photographed by the Post-Dispatch.

For Seventeen Years 'Squire Touchett of St. Clair County, Ill., Has Followed This Odd Custom.

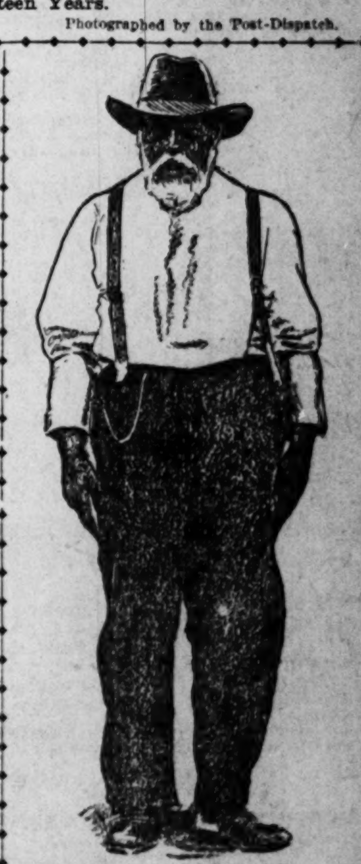
'Squire Andrew Touchett of Centerville Station, St. Clair County, Ill., re-elected Tuesday to the office of justice of the peace for his 17th year, conducts a saloon in connection with his official duties and holds court sessions in front of his bar.

Judge Touchett, born Jan. 19, 1838, one mile south of his present emporium of juices and justice, and reared in its dominating environment of rigid frugality, has no advanced ideas regarding the appointments or furnishings of courtrooms. He belives that barristers can plead as successfully before a card table as in front of an antique oak railing, and often with more eloquence if the particular table is positioned in proximity to a bar where bottled refreshments are dispensed rather than prosaic extracts from Blackstone or Chitty.

Judge Touchett, following Shakspeare's admonition, "Suit the action to the word," has provided the table, also enough chairs, to accommodate the jury and witnesses of the most exciting case on record in the Centerville bailiwick. Idle spectators are supposed to stand. The room is 18 feet long and 14 wide. The bar extends the full length of the east side. The arrangement for the sessions of the court occupies the rest of the space. Someone suggested to the magistrate that he erect a regular judge's bench to give his official position a more dignified altitude. He is accredited with replying that it would be more realistic to him to sit behind a table, and incidentally that this article of furniture could be turned to dual account for the benefit of card players at the conclusion of the court. The table was bought and has been in active service sixteen years—either for holding glasses of foaming brew or receiving raps from the judge's vehement gavel in calling excited attorneys to order. Its former polished surface has given place to deep indentations, and scratches cut by ragged glass. In the center there is a slot that might some day have been a receptacle for the "rake-off"—before the judge bought the table from a dealer in second-hand goods.

Judge Touchett is more than ordinarily popular in his bailiwick, as his repeated popular in his bailiwick, as his repeated reto as "the Squire." In his long career as magistrate he has tried more than 200 cases and married about 100 couples. His son, Louis G. Touchett, presides at the wet goods bar while the father officiates at the bar of justice. Louis said to the Post-Dispatch:

"It is convenient to have the court in the saloon. I have known father to adjourn sessions for a few minutes several times in one sitting in order that the jury and lawyers might walk up to the bar for a drink. Then he would reconvene court and proceed with business. He has married over two dozen couples in the saloon."



'SQUIRE TOUCHETT.

Judge Touchett is a French-Canadian. His wife and five children constitute his family. His children are: Louis G., William A. and Frank J. Touchett, Mrs. Mary A. Graff and Mrs. Elizabeth Tribout. The first named is the only one at home. The family live in the same building that the saloon is in; a one-story, quaint gothic-fashioned structure, built at the first conception of Centerville Station, and in which Judge Touchett has resided for 32 years.

The squire has conducted a saloon 30 years. He has been township clerk, postmaster and ticket agent for the old Cairo Short Line Railroad. He has extensive landed interests, but looks more after politics than the money-getting pursuits of the community.

He has been a Democrat ever since he was old enough to vote, and never misses a township meeting of his party. Some important highway condemnation cases that were eventually carried to higher courts had their first hearing in his saloon.

REFEREE DECIDES AGAINST ALBERS

Mt. Calvary Church Trouble Aired in Circuit Court.

PLAINTIFFS GET FULL AMOUNT

DISPUTE WAS OVER DISPOSAL OF BUILDING FUND.

Claus H. Albers, as Treasurer of the Fund, Refused to Pay It Over to Bishop Tuttle

Arba N. Crane, referee in the case of the rector, church warden and vestrymen of Mt. Calvary Church against Claus H. Albers, filed his report in Judge Spencer's Court, Saturday, recommending judgment in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount asked, $7,772.13.

Albers was vestryman of the church and when the cyclone of 1896 destroyed the house of worship was appointed treasurer of the fund to be raised for building a new edifice. He, so it is agreed between the parties to the suit, offered to take charge of the money and pay the church 5 per cent interest until such time as the church felt able to build.

As the building was delayed some time, the vestry, being in need of money, used some of the funds in Mr. Albers' keeping. He himself, according to the referee's report, on several occasions made motions to pay debts out of the fund, thus agreeing to the practice.

There grew up, however, the report says, a division in the vestry, some thinking that that such a use of the money was morally wrong. The rector, Rev. P. W. Fauntleroy, agreed with those who favored the use of the money. Mr. Albers took the opposite view.

Finally, on May 3, 1898, a motion was passed providing that only the rector's salary should be paid out of the building fund. This, however, did not put a stop to the practice of paying other debts therefrom. The disagreement as to the matter continued.

In April, 1900, as a result, several new vestrymen were elected. Then a movevent was started to take the money out of the hands of Mr. Albers and give it into the custody of Bishop Tuttle. On May 18, 1900, a motion to this effect was carried, instructing Albers to pay the money over in ten days.

Albers, according to the testimony before the referee, refused to surrender the money. Suit was accordingly filed against Albers.

In his answer he asserted that he took charge of the money, offering to pay interest, under the understanding that he was to honor drafts on the fund only for the settlement of debts incurred in the erection of the new church. He claimed also that the contract provided that the money should remain in his hands.

The referee, in giving his decision, refers to the fact that Albers had allowed drafts on the fund for current expenses of the church. He argues that there was nothing to show that Albers had any claim to the fund except as its treasurer, by appointment of the vestry. Therefore, the report says, he was bound to dispose of it as the vestry directed and give it up when so ordered.

DAUGHTER MAY BE LOCATED

Policeman O'Gara Has Information Which May Reveal Whereabouts of the Missing Girl.

Patrolman Michael O'Gara of 5904 Michigan avenue, received information Monday morning that may reveal the whereabouts of his 13-year-old daughter Mary, who disappeared mysteriously from her home Sunday, March 31. It is the first clew the father has found.

O'Gara received information Monday that a young girl whose description tallies with his missing child was placed in a school last Monday morning.

O'Gara is now searching for the institution where he hopes to find his daughter.

The information agrees with O'Gara's theory of the influence that led the girl to leave her home.

The girl was 4 months old when her mother died. Mr. O'Gara married afterward and his present wife has raised the child from infancy.

The girl never expressed discontent and Mrs. O'Gara can discover no reason for her to run away.

Mary was left alone at home Sunday, March 31. When Mrs. O'Gara returned from church the house was vacant. The girl had disappeared and left no trace. Her clothes and effects were undisturbed.

Mr. O'Gara has searched the city since. He was excused from duty to prosecute the search and the entire police department was notified and commanded to aid O'Gara.

It has been a blind hunt. The girl succeeded in leaving home unobserved. No neighbor saw her leave the yard and no person can remember seeing her take the car.

The river is near and the frantic father has been assailed with fear. Despite all O'Gara has fortified his courage with the hope that the girl was decoyed from home by persons who dislike him and in this event she was safe and would be found eventually.

DENNIS RIORDAN'S MISHAP.

Claims He Was Kicked From a Car on Twelfth Street.

"Did he fall or was he kicked?" became a question in the City Hall Police Court Monday in the case of Dennis Riordan. The prisoner was injured by a fall from a car on Twelfth street Sunday and Policeman Mansfield arrested him on the charge of drunkenness.

"I was kicked off the car and I can bring witnesses to prove it," said Riordan to the court.

"You can have another chance," was the response. "Don't come here again."

MRS. ARTHUR KNIGHT DEAD.

Young Matron Expires From Peritonitis, Following an Operation.

Mrs. Illa Geraldine Knight, wife of Arthur A. Knight, bicycle dealer, died Sunday afternoon at the City Hospital from peritonitis resulting from a surgical operation.

Mrs. Knight was 24 years old and a native of Canada. She was married four years ago at Kankakee, Ill., the wedding being the result of a chance meeting there with Mr. Knight, who had also come from Canada and who knew her family. Mrs. Knight has brothers who fought in the South African war. Her funeral will take place Monday afternoon from the family residence, 3157 School street.

"THE GOVERNOR'S SON" IS A SPRIGHTLY ENTERTAINMENT

"THE REAL GIRLS" AS PRESENTED IN THE FIRST ACT OF "THE GOVERNOR'S SON."

The four Cohans have certainly discovered the art of entertaining, and a great art it is, to be sure.

As a vaudeville combination they entertained, and now, in a more pretentious effort, they have kept and added to their reputation, just as they have added to the length of the entertainment.

The vehicle which they have selected for displaying their art, and which was produced at the Century Theater last night, is a three-act musical farce, entitled "The Governor's Son." It is by George M. Cohan, the son, and is an elaboration of the sketch in which they made such an excellent reputation in vaudeville, and which was a drawing card at the Columbia earlier in the season. Mistaken identity is the foundation, and the young playwright has certainly succeeded in evolving a most amusing and ingenious tangle. The dialogue is of the brisk, up-to-date sort, with now and then a musical number, which is part of the story and not dragged in for the mere purpose of filling in time.

At no time during the entertainment does the audience lose sight of the story of the play, which is founded on the governor's son meeting, in the first act, with an afflicted female, who tells of a man who married her, went out to get a drink and never came back. Later he meets, separately, an elderly married couple who are on their honeymoon, mistakes the man for the person who deserted the other woman, and finally arouses utter confusion by leading the elderly bridegroom to believe that his new wife has another husband, while, in turn, his wife labors under the impression that he also has an extra wife to his credit. In the meantime the governor's son has met the husband of the first woman and gets him confused, has him don a disguise, and he goes through the entire three acts looking for himself.

If there is any real criticism to be passed upon the production it is that the performance is about fifteen minutes too long. This extra time might easily be cut out of the second act. It is a fault that can be easily remedied. The playwright himself doubtless sees where the dialogue begins to verge on tediousness and suddenly, in the most unexpected manner, starts up the fastest kind of a song and dance.

Herein is displayed the real art of entertaining.

George Cohan is likewise an actor. His comedy is delicate and grows upon the audience. Josephine Cohan is a dancer without a rival. Every motion she makes is graceful and she is so slender and supple that she seems to have been created just to dance her way through the world and into the hearts of her audiences. In spite of the fact that the play is a good three hours long, if Josephine Cohan would have danced longer the audience would have been well pleased to have remained as long as she chose. She is likewise possessed of considerable talent as an actress.

There are actors in the company who are worthy of mention. Ethel Levey has a voice and knows how to use it. She can also dance. Will H. Sloan is a good German comedian and Jerry Cohan is entertaining in a dry way.

The Governor's Son is elaborately staged, the costumes being new both in make and design. As a whole the production is the very attraction that the Century needs for Easter week.

This is "Farewell week" with the Castle Square Opera Company at Music Hall, and a different opera will be presented each evening. The selection for this evening is "Faust," which will be given with the following cast:

Faust	Joseph F. Sheehan
Mephisto	William H. Clark
Valentine	William Paull
Wagner	Joseph P. Coombs
Marguerite	Josephine Ludwig
Siebel	Frances Graham
Martha	Maud Lambert

At the Olympic, tonight, Daniel Frohman's company will present, for the first time in St. Louis, "Lady Huntworth's Experiment," Miss Hilda Spong essaying the leading role. It is an English play, but is said to be sufficiently American to please.

The Kunkel concert at Y. M. C. A. Hall Wednesday evening will be of unusual merit. An exceptionally good program has been arranged and the soloists have been selected with especial care. The last concert will be given the last week in the month.

Kara, the juggler, is the headliner in the new bill which is being presented at the Columbia this afternoon. The program is a good one from start to finish.

The Knickerbocker Burlesquers entertained two large audiences at the Standard yerterday afternoon and evening. The show is strictly up-to-date and full of novelties.

ALL WERE DISCHARGED

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS DISPENSE WITH EVERY CLERK.

AFFAIR HAS NO PRECEDENT

Commissioners Say That Dismissals Are Common, but Manipulated Pollbooks May Have Been Responsible.

The office of the Board of Election Commissioners was visited Monday by numerous applicants for clerical positions. The cause of the rush was the discharge of the entire force of clerks who have served since the November election.

Judge Wood, one of the commissioners, said Monday that not more than ten men would be appointed at present to fill the places of those who had been discharged. He said that the men had been dismissed because the passing of the election season left no work for them to do. Judge McCaffery gave a similar reason.

Commissioner W. A. Hobbs, the Republican member of the board, refused to express an opinion upon the reason for the discharge of the clerks, but said that if the motion for their dismissal, which was made by Judge Wood, had included the secretary of the board, C. L. Hoblitzelle, he would have voted for it.

Judge Wood said Monday that Mr. Hoblitzelle's dismissal had not been talked of at Saturday's meeting. "It would not have been wise to leave the board without a secretary," he said. "But Mr. Hoblitzelle is subject to discharge at any time if the commissioners desire to take such action."

It has been customary to dismiss most of the clerks of the election office during seasons when there is no work for them, but the discharge of the entire force at one time has had no precedent in the history of the office.

The clerical force of the election board office was subjected to criticism last week by the discovery that the pollbooks from two wards had been tampered with in the office. Members of the board say they found it impossible to locate the responsibility for these acts.

PRIEST MAY BE A CANDIDATE

Former United States District Judge May Aspire to Succeed Senator Vest.

Judge H. S. Priest, former United States district judge, stated to the Post-Dispatch Monday morning that under certain circumstances he might become a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Vest.

Judge Priest said he was not prepared to reveal what the circumstances were upon which his candidacy depended, but that the public would be informed in due time should he decide to make the race.

For several days it has been rumored in political circles that Judge Priest was making a quiet, but active canvass, with a view to succeeding Senator Vest, and that his friends throughout the state were being "sounded" in anticipation of some such step. Judge Priest said:

"I have been asked to enter the lists as a candidate for the United States Senate, but am not prepared to announce either that I will or will not do so. Under certain circumstances I may become a candidate. That is all I can say about the matter at present.

"I know very little and care less about the intricacies of city politics, and hence could not be regarded as the candidate of the cities, as opposed to the rural districts. My acquaintance over the state is extensive, and it is from the interior of the state, principally, that pressure has been brought to bear upon me to become a candidate."

Judge Priest is an intimate personal friend and former classmate at Westminster College of William H. Wallace, the Kansas City attorney, who is an avowed candidate for United States senator. Mr. Wallace is an orator of wide renown. He conducted the prosecution of Frank James at Gallatin, Mo., several years ago.

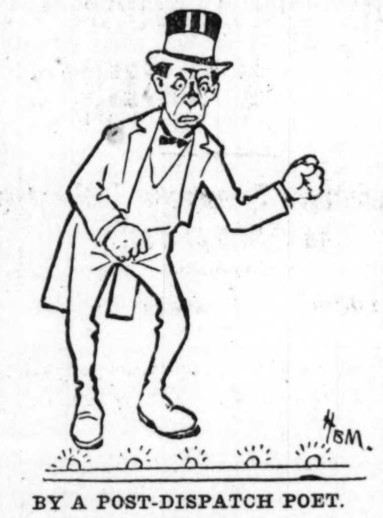
Senator Vest's successor will not be elected until 1903, but the contest for his seat has been in progress for the last year or more. Gov. A. M. Dockery and former Gov. William J. Stone are regarded as the leading contestants. With Mr. Wallace and Judge Priest in the fight the way will probably be opened for Congressmen Champ Clark and DeArmond, who have aspirations toward the Senate, to enter the lists.

Benefit Euchre.—There will be a euchre at De Lisle Hall on Tuesday night, April 9, for the benefit of St. Louis Progressive Union. Twenty-five prizes are offered.

SEABROOKE LOST HIS "Q"

In Old Detroit He Made Complaint and Ran the Colors in His Paint Because His Hearers' Praise Was Faint.

Thomas Q. Seabrooke, star of "The Rounders" company, ranted before a Detroit audience concerning his treatment by the press of that city, and became so violent that the stage manager rang down the curtain on his outburst.



BY A POST-DISPATCH POET.

O Mr. Seabrooke, why do you
  Revile the men who roast your play?
You babble like the other brook.
  Which never tires, the poets say.

Why speak of "knockers," frenzied sir,
  When you of all that band are chief,
And put your audience in a whirr,
  To give your angered soul relief?

Remember, Thomas, in this world
  If every "ham" should get his due,
Some reputations would be curled
  And sadly twisted, Thomas Q.!

The man who kicks on what he gets
  Deserves no more than what he got.
The busy hustler never frets
  Or makes complaint about his lot.

O Thomas Q.! O Thomas! You
  Moan like old ocean on the bar.
It seems to me you've lost your Q,
  O sad comedian what you are!

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SCORED

Rev. John F. Cannon, Addressing Medical Students, Denounces It as "Unscientific and Unchristian."

Speaking before the senior class of Barnes' Medical College, Rev. Dr. John F. Cannon Sunday night condemned Christian Science as both unscientific and unchristian. He declared that the teachers of Christian Science have stolen the livery of heaven to serve the devil in. Dr. Cannon said:

"This systm teaches that as sickness is not a reality, sin is not. No need for the Saviour, the cross and the remedial agencies of the gospel. Man has come under the law of sickness, suffering and death in this world. To ignore this fact is to part company with true religion and true science."

Dr. Cannon's sermon was chiefly devoted to defining the relations of the physician to the church.

DISCOVERED A DEAD MAN.

Miners at Belleville Found It Near Southern Railway Tracks.

Coal miners on their way to work near Belleville Monday morning found beside the Southern Railway tracks the mangled body of a man. He was identified as a miner named Dickson, his first name not being known to those who furnished the identification. The dead man was 35 years old and had a wife and four children living in Belleville. Coroner McCracken commenced an inquest on the body Monday afternoon.

SUES FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Albert Parker Has Mandamused Col. Hugh at Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 8.—Albert Parker commenced an action in the District Court today by mandamus to compel Col. J. W. F. Hughes to turn the office of mayor over to Parker on the ground that he was legally elected mayor. On the face of the returns Col. Hughes, the law and order candidate, received a majority of seven. Mr. Parker's name appeared on two tickets, the Democratic and Citizens'.

FIGHTING THEIR PASTOR

Rev. Sturgeon's Moral Crusade Has Stirred Up Trouble in the Congregation of Tower Grove Church.

The Tower Grove Baptist Church is in the throes of a factional fight.

"This church must be purified," announced Rev. Menta Sturgeon, pastor of the congregation, a month ago. "It has members who are not living according to the Bible. They must rectify their manner of living or the church must withdraw from them. The process of purification must begin at once."

The process had not proceeded far before it involved some of the most prominent members of the congregation, and a vigorous clash between the pastor and the aggrieved members ensued.

It is said that the congregation, under the direction of Rev. Sturgeon, has withdrawn the hand of fellowship from 15 members, all of whom were officially connected with the body.

Six members have been excommunicated for petitioning the pastor to resign.

He says this act completes the work of purification temporarily at least. Members of his congregation who are hostile to him say nothing will satisfy them but the resignation of the minister.

Rev. Sturgeon says he will resign when he becomes convinced that his pastorate is no longer beneficial to the charge—but not until then. He is not yet so convinced.

DR. BOYD REBUKED AUDIENCE

Asked Usher to Clear Vestibule of Persons Waiting to Hear Mr. Sheehan Sing.

Joseph Sheehan, tenor of the Castle Square Opera Company, sang to an audience of 1200 persons at the Easter services of the Second Baptist Church, held Sunday night at Temple Shaare Emeth. Not less than 500 were turned away from the church for lack of seats and standing room.

Admirers of the popular tenor who, having been unable to gain entrance to the church, stood in the hallway awaiting his solo, were rebuked by Rev. Dr. W. W. Boyd, the pastor, for disturbing the service.

"Mr. Usher," said Dr. Boyd, stopping in the midst of his sermon, "I wish you would clear the vestibule. We would have less noise if less people were there. I do not blame them for talking if they cannot hear, but we can hear them, and their conversation is very annoying."

In spite of the minister's request there was no material lessening of the crowd until Mr. Sheehan sang his solo, Shelley's "Resurrection." Then, as the offertory commenced, hundreds left the church.

Opera-goers who have heard Mr. Sheehan in a half-dozen roles were numerous in the audience, eager to hear the singer in devotional selections. He did not lay aside the habits of the stage sufficiently to suit the conventional taste in religious music, and his mannerisms, which would have been unnoticed had the choir been at the rear of the church, caused general comment among the worshippers.

As he sang the final note of his selection Mr. Sheehan snatched the sheet of music from the rack and turned to his seat in so theatrical a manner that a titter passed over the audience.

Solos by Mrs. Cunningham, soprano of the Second Baptist Church choir, and Mrs. Bollman, alto, divided Dr. Boyd's Easter discourse into three sections, the last of which was followed by Mr. Sheehan's solo.

BIT OF RUSSIAN DIPLOMACY.

Manchurian Treaty Could Not Have Been Enforced Even if Maintained.

LONDON, April 8.—Russia's announcement of her determination not to press to a conclusion the negotiations respecting China is regarded here as a piece of diplomacy.

It has become clear during the last few days that if the Chinese Emperor were to give his assent to the projected arrangement he would find himself confronted by a tide of opinion among his subjects that might overwhelm his authority.

It is also surmised that Russia's philanthropic intentions may have been quickened by the bellicose attitude of Japan.

SOILED FACE COST $10.

William Merk Punished for His Odd Celebration of Easter.

Because he entered St. John's Church, at Sixteenth and Chestnut streets with soiled face and hands, Andrew Merk was arrested by Policeman Lange Sunday afternoon. Judge Sidener fined Merk $10 Monday.

A company of Easter pilgrims from other parishes visited St. John's Church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and Merk followed the worshipers into the building. As he came out Lange arrested him.

"He has washed his face since he was in the church," said Policeman Lange on the witness stand.

"He will stand a whole lot of washing yet," remarked Judge Sidener as he surveyed the prisoner. "They'll give him a bath at the Workhouse."

CLAIMS HE LOST $86.

Henry Young Caused the Arrest Monday of Peter Schulz.

Peter P. Schultz of 2213 South Second street, is a prisoner at the Soulard street station, where he is being held until Henry Young, 2000 De Kalb street, shall have applied for a warrant. Young says he will charge Schultz with shaking him by the throat while he took $86, which Young claims is his property. The men met in the saloon of William Rasp at 2135 South Second street early Monday morning. Young told Capt. Young, commanding the Soulard street station, that his assailant ran out of the saloon after taking the money. The police recovered $80.

TEACHERS SEEKNIG HONORS

St. Louis Kindergarten Delegation May Be the Largest at the International Congress at Chicago.

Mrs. Mary McCulloch, supervisor of the St. Louis kindergartens, and a party of 70 teachers and friends will go to Chicago Tuesday to attend the International Kindergarten Congress, that will meet April 10 and be in session three days.

Anna M. Merriman, principal of Franklin School; Principal Mary E. P. West of the Longfellow School, Miss Isabel Mulford of the High School and Mrs. Ittner, wife of the commissioner of supplies, will go with the party.

Thursday Miss McCulloch will lead a "Round Table" discussion. Her subject is, "Stories for Children."

Miss McCulloch hopes that her delegation will be the largest delegation present, distance traveled considered. In this event it will win the title, "The Banner Delegation."

The International Union will meet in the rooms of the Chicago Women's Club. Over 1000 Kindergarten teachers are expected.

The International Union is the largest kindergarten organization in the world. The following teachers and friends will go from St. Louis:

POLICE DEMAND DECRERSED

Department Asks for Nearly $200,000 Less Than in 1900 Because of Normal Conditions Which Do Not Require Extra Expenditures.

Nearly $200,000 less than the estimate of 1900 is asked by the police department from the city in its annual request for appropriation. Inspector of Police Edward Lally, who has supervision of the auditing of police finances, thus explained the decrease:

"None of the items in the decreased part of the estimate will be required by the police department this year. Last year the following items were asked: For salaries of emergency policemen during the strike, $25,000; the building of an addition to the Dayton street station cost $4000; the new police station at Grand and Magnolia avenues cost $22,200; unpaid bills for police business in 1899 amounted to $18,000; there was spent on the underground patrol wire system, $28,000, and the expenses of the department during the street car strike, including the purchase of riot guns, revolvers, meals, beds and other necessities, were $100,000, making a total of $198,000, which will not be required this year. The decreased estimate does not mean any decrease in the department force."

ALL CAUSED BY THE BIRDSHOT

Potter College Escapade May Be Smoothed Over.

YOUNG MEN WILL GO FREE

RELATIVES OF THE GIRLS DO NOT WANT THE CASE TRIED.

New Incidents of the Lark, Showing How Two of the Boys Literally Held a Fort Against Prof. Cabell's Shotgun.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 8.—President B. F. Cabell returned Saturday night from Frankfort, the state capital, where he went Saturday morning in company with W. B. Bradburn, attorney for the five young society men under indictment for shooting with intent to kill and for committing a riot as a result of their attempt a week ago Sunday morning to take five young women from Potter College and accompany them to a duck supper prepared and in waiting at a local cafe.

Dr. Cabell refused either to affirm or to deny the report that his visit to Frankfort had been for the purpose of securing from Gov. Beckham a pardon for the young men under indictment, and thus avoiding the further embarrassment of a trial at the September term of the Warren County Circuit Court.

"I have been misrepresented about my visit to Frankfort," said President Cabell to the Post-Dispatch. "I have nothing more to say about it. I am sick and tired of the whole thing.

"I suppose the young people just started out for a frolic. The same thing has happened time and again at every boarding school for girls in the country. I have no doubt that it has happened here many times before, but I never happened to catch them at it.

"Yes, I had an intimation of what was to happen. I expected a visit such as the young men gave us, and I had determined to use stern measures. We were keeping watch.

"Sunday morning, only a few hours after the affair, I called a faculty meeting and the young women were expelled. I could not, of course, have them longer at my school after such disregard of the rules."

Dr. Cabell's statement was at variance with that of Mrs. Alice F. Glasscock, the lady principal of Potter College, who said to the Post-Dispatch Saturday that the college authorities had received no intimation of what was to happen and did not keep extra watch on the night of the escapade. She also denied that the five young women were expelled, saying that they were merely sent home.

The day before his trip to Frankfort, Dr. Cabell, in consultation with W. B. Bradburn, the attorney, drew up a statement characterizing the conduct of all parties in the escapade of a week ago Sunday morning as "indiscreet and improper" and claiming that "the facts were exaggerated and in an exaggerated form were presented to the grandjury and indictments returned."

The chief witnesses before the grandjury were Dr. B. F. Cabell himself, Mrs. Alice F. Glasscock, the lady principal of Potter College; Misses Lillian Mickey, Ada Ayer and M. Rouse, all three members of the college faculty.

The eagerness of Dr. Cabell to prevent further proceedings in the case is due largely, it is said, to the attitude of the parents of the young women who were expelled.

One of the young women, Miss Lena Hopkins, comes of a wealthy Louisiana family. Miss Bessie Boyer's home is in Illinois, Miss Bessie Simpson lives in Nicholasville, Ky., and Miss Florence Cottrell and Miss Ruth Haynes in Cloverport, Ky.

The parents of Miss Haynes and Miss Cottrell and a brother of Miss Boyer have been in Bowling Green during the past week. They object seriously to a further prosecution of the case against the young men because it will require the presence of the girls at the trial as witnesses.

Another fact that adds to the embarrassment of the situation is the fact that two of the young men, Pleasant Potter, Jr., and Willis Potter, are grandsons of Pleasant J. Potter, the chief benefactor of Potter College, after whom the institution was named. Harry Nahm, Floyd Nahm and Roland Fitch also come of families whose relations with the college have been intimate ever since its foundation.

The young men under indictment are evidently the least concerned persons in Bowling Green. They refuse to discuss their escapade and rarely refer to it in the presence of others. All of them were in the city Saturday night and Sunday. Pleasant Potter, Jr., is the only one of the number who is not seen about town. The reason for this seclusion is said to be the presence in various parts of his body of a number of birdshot, supposed to have come from Dr. Cabell's shotgun.

Roland Fitch returned from Owensboro Saturday night. While there he made a trip to Cloverport, only a few miles away, and called on Misses Florence Cottrell and Ruth Haynes, two of the young women who participated in the escapade.

While the college authorities continue their efforts to hush all talk regarding the duck supper affair, and the young men who were principals say nothing, all Kentucky keeps on talking. Almost the sole topic of conversation on trains, in hotels, everywhere, is the "Potter College duck supper." It is the subject of scores of arguments, often heated. Opinions differ broadly. Everyone, however, seems to agree with the old waiter in a local hotel, who says:

"De doctah's birdshot was what set de whole thing a-goin'. If he'd jist kept 'em to hisself nobody nevah'd a-heard a thing about it and de ducks for de duck supper wouldn't 'a' spoiled fo' lack of eatin'. I guess 'taint de first time college girls has slipped off on de sly to have a little suppah with young gemmen frien's."

The five young men, principals in the affair, are the youngest members of the Bowling Green Lodge of the National Order of Elks. They are chums. Their headquarters, when at leisure and not in their lodge rooms, is at the Bowling Green Cafe. There they have planned many little affairs before, and there they planned the duck supper. It is said that even other duck suppers had been planned there before.

They made engagements with the five young women on Saturday, the day before the affair came off. The young women were downtown with a teacher and saw the young men at that time.

They secured the services of William Gulliver of the Bowling Green Cafe to prepare the supper and engaged transportation of George McAlister, a hackman.

It was about midnight, between Saturday and Sunday, when they drove south down College street from the square toward the college, which stands on the summit of a high hill facing north.

About 60 feet southwest of the college are the ruins of an old fort, built during the Civil war. It is part stone and part just huge piles of dirt thrown up from the trenches.

The hackman was directed to drive around back of this fort. The young men, armed with a ladder, and as afterward developed with pistols, left the carriage and climbed to the fort. There two of their number, Harry Nahm and Pleasant Potter, Jr., the two youngest, were left as a garrison to receive the young women after they had made the descent from their window, which faced west toward the fort.

The three others crept up to the college building, dragging their ladder. As quietly as they could, they pushed it up against the building until it touched the second-story window, where the young women were waiting, all ready to descend.

As soon as the signal came from below, one young woman, wrapped in a long cloak, stepped out and began to descend. Two others followed immediately. The three were Misses Hopkins, Simpson and Cottrell. They reached the ground in safety and started for the fort, where the garrison of two was standing at attention. The two remaining young women began to descend.

Before they had reached the foot of the ladder, and just as the three who started for the fort reached its protection, Dr. Cabell loomed up in the darkness at the rear of the building, shotgun in hand and birdshot in gun.

Somebody fired. Who it was that fired first is in doubt. At any rate birdshot scattered from the shotgun and some of them took effect in Pleasant Potter, who formed half of the garrison in the fort. The young men admit that they used their pistols, but Dr. Cabell escaped unscathed. The trio of young men near the building then retreated, leaving their ladder and entered the fort. From there with the three young women who had got away, they went to the carriage and drove away down the hill. The two young women on the ladder were compelled to return, amid many tears, to their rooms.

Dr. Cabell telephoned for a policeman.

Roland Fitch telephoned Dr. Cabell.

"Professor," said he, "we have the three girls here in the hack. Will you let us bring them back?"

Dr. Cabell agreed, and the carriage returned up the hill. Roland Fitch, Harry Nahm and Willis Potter were with the young women. They begged forgiveness for their frolic and suggested that it be hushed up at once. Dr. Cabell replied that he was in no mood to talk. The young men went home; the young women retired to their rooms.

The grandjury met Monday. Wild rumors, none of them verified, were flying about town as to what had happened at the college. The attention of the jury was attracted by them and they summoned Dr. Cabell and several members of his faculty. The other witnesses were the hackdriver, a policeman and several friends of the young men. The young men themselves were not summoned. Thursday two indictments were returned, charging shooting with intent to kill and committing a riot. Bond to the amount of $100 under the first indictment and $200 under the second was required of each of the indicted men and was speedily furnished.

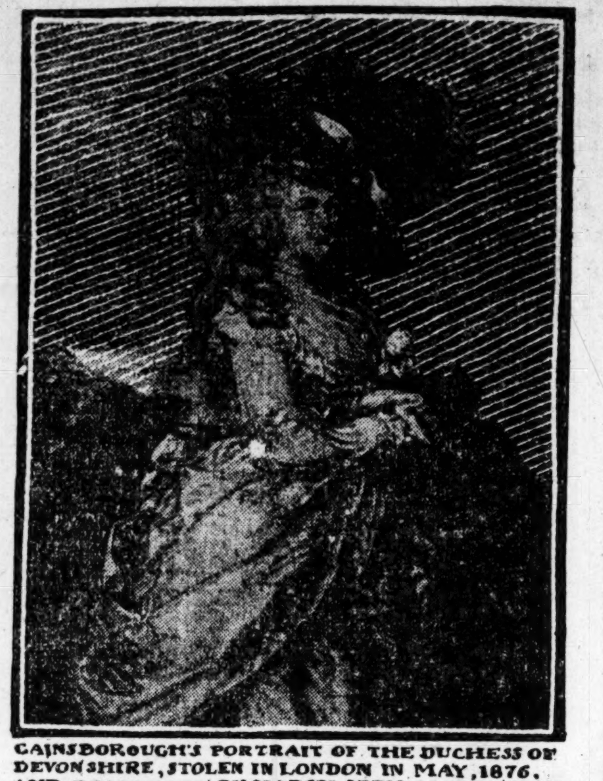
IT IS THE FAMOUS PAINTING



GAINSBOROUGH'S PORTRAIT OF THE DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE, STOLEN IN LONDON IN MAY, 1876, AND RECOVERED ON MARCH 27TH, 1901, IN CHICAGO

MR. AGNEW ADMITS THAT HE HAS THE LONG-MISSING GAINSBOROUGH.

LIVERPOOL, April 8.—C. Morland Agnew, upon his arrival here on the steamer Etruria this morning admitted that he had the Gainsborough portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The police say the man who took the picture is Adam Worth. Time, however, has outlawed the crime, and though Worth is well known to the Scotland Yard authorities and to the police of this country, he has no fear of prosecution.

After having the famous painting under his control for 25 years lacking two months, Adam Worth, on March 26 of this year, returned it to C. Morland Agnew. The transfer was made in the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, the details having been arranged by the two principals, who dealt through William Pinkerton and Patrick Sheedy.

Mr. Agnew came to the United States for the purpose of obtaining possession of the Gainsborough canvas. Having accomplished his purpose he immediately started home. Worth and Agnew were fellow passengers on the Etruria when that steamer left this port ten days ago. Worth traveled under an alias, his name not being on the Etruria's passenger list. It is even possible that he and Mr. Agnew formed a friendship for each other during the voyage. Mr. Agnew never knew with whom he was dealing when he was negotiating for the return of his picture. He had no suspicion that the man who received the major part of the gold he paid in to get his canvas would sail with him on the Etruria.

Adam Worth's life has been filled with rare adventure, and for the benefit of those who may think it worthy of emulation, it should be added that he has spent many years at the hardest kind of labor behind prison walls. Worth is said to be a younger son of a family whose name has been respected and honored in England for generations.

MORE STUDENTS ARRESTED.

Many in Custody at Kharkoff for Expressing Their Sentiments.

LONDON, April 8.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Reuter Telegram Co. says the police at Kharkoff have arrested 21 students for rioting at the railroad station on the occasion of the departure of other students who were expelled for being connected with previous disturbances at Kharkoff.

A number of students were also arrested in St. Petersburg on leaving a theater where they had manifested particular approval of certain passages of a play which seemed to refer to existing political conditions in Russia.

300 MAIDENS GET SPOUSES

Unique Marriage Ceremony of Arapahoe Indians.

MANY ARE UNWILLING BRIDES

THEY ARE CHOSEN AFTER A BIG DANCE AND CARRIED OFF.

Their Fathers Get as High as Twenty Ponies for Them, but They Get a Life of Slavery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA, Kan., April 7.—At an "Easter sacrifice dance" of the Cheyenne, Arapahoe and Otoe Indians, held in Darlington, Oklahoma, this morning, 300 young squaws were given away as brides. Many of the young squaws objected to accepting the young men who were to marry them, but their objections were overruled by Yellow Feathers, an Arapahoe medicine chief.

The dance takes place annually, but rarely has such a large number of women been placed upon the list as available brides. Some of them were young—only 15. A few of the young squaws may have secured husbands who will treat them well, but in most cases the girls will be made slaves.

In the sacrifice dance the girls are made to dance until they are weary. They are then ordered to stand in a line and the bucks dance around them for half an hour more. Then the medicine men announce that each buck will take such and such a squaw for his wife. The buck goes to that squaw, grabs her by the arm and whirls her off into the dance. She is later escorted to his tepee and duly installed as cook and servant. That night the medicine man comes around and tells them they are married.

Next day the father of the girl must be paid a certain sum, which will not exceed 20 ponies. In olden days Indian girls were worth all the way from 50 to 200 ponies, but the price has fallen.

An Indian bride is made to do all the work about the house and is never granted time for visiting. If she is allowed to go to town she must sit on the floor of a wagon bed, while her lord and master rides on the front spring seat.

DID FAITH WORK A MIRACLE?

Christian Scientists Tell of the Effect of Faith.

CHANGED A CORNER STONE

PLANS INCLUDED "NEW YORK" IN THE ENGRAVED NAME.

This Was an Error and the Congregation Prayed for Aid Which Came in the Removal of the Word From the Name.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A miracle has been wrought here, say the Christian Scientists. Some doubting and irreverent Thomases say the granite cutter laid down on his job before it was finished.

With the proclaiming of a miracle the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, was dedicated yesterday.

According to the second reader of the church, John Carroll Lathrop, whose statement is corroborated by prominent business men connected with the church, the inscription on the massive corner-stone of the beautiful new granite and marble structure at Sixty-eighth street and Central Park West was changed in answer to prayer.

This story was told to three audiences, numbering altogether more than 4000 persons, that crowded the church. The services were conducted by Mr. Lathrop and his mother, Mrs. Laura Lathrop, who is the first reader, and the addresses and other exercises on all three occasions were identical.

"Two years ago this morning," said Mr. Lathrop, "occurred an event of no mean importance in the annals of this church, in the laying of its corner-stone—a stone weighing 10 tons and cut in the granite quarries at our leader's home in Concord, N. H. The Lord of Hosts did engrave the engraving thereof.

"The legal name of this church had been 'New York Second Church of Christ, Scientist,' and six months prior to the laying of the corner-stone this name was given to each contractor of the new edifice, including the stone contractor at Concord. It had been decided to engrave the name of the church upon the face of the stone in raised letters and to place the word 'Purity' upon the end of the stone. The contractor had been so instructed.

"Three days before Easter, 1899, the stone arrived, boxed up, and on the very same morning came a letter from Mrs. Eddy, in which she said that she had noticed in the newspapers that the name of our church was incorrect. Well, there we were, with our corner-stone to be laid in three days, with all arrangements made and the wrong name engraved on the stone. We immediately called a meeting of the trustees and, after much prayer, it was decided that the engraving must and could be changed in time for the Easter ceremony. * * *

"We retired that night in deep prayer, arose in the morning, and, upon glancing at the plans, found to our intense surprise that the great mistake had been made thereon. We called up the architect, who said it was impossible, it must be there; but to his great amazement he found that it was not.

"We hastened over to the church, tore off a board from the stone and found that the word had been removed from the stone. We found it just as you see it today. This is but one of the many divine manifestations associated with the building of this remarkable structure."

William D. Baldwin, president of the Otis Elevator Co. and others corroborate the statement of Mr. Lathrop. Their theory is that the Lord guided the stonecutter into disobeying orders they had given him.

SEVEN CIGARS WON AGUINALDO

Seven of His Retainers Came Into Lieut. Taylor's Camp.

HE TREATED THEM KINDLY

NEXT DAY THEY GAVE INFORMATION AS TO CHIEF'S LOCATION.

This, Taylor Writes, He Communicated to Gen. Funston and the Latter Set About the Famous Capture.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAKE CITY, Fla., April 8.—J. D. Taylor has received a letter from his son, Lieut. James D. Taylor, Jr., which shows that the young man, with kindness and seven cigars, won over seven Filipinos and secured the information which enabled Gen. Funston to capture Aguinaldo.

The letter, dated at Pantabangan, Philippine Islands, Feb. 18, 1901, is as follows:

"On the 8th seven insurrectos, with one rifle and six cartridges, presented themselves. I fed them, gave them a cigar each and asked them a few questions, and they answered me with all kinds of lies. I told them if they would take the oath of allegiance they could go home and report the next morning ready to tell the truth, for I did not believe a word they had said.

"The next morning they came in a little more at ease and told a different tale. They said Aguinaldo was in the town they came from. Two days later I got his special messenger, who had all orders from Aggie to his generals and letters of great importance. I turned him with all letters over to Gen. Funston, who went down that night and in three days he was in Manila. They had a special train waiting him when he reached the railroad.

"I owe my good luck to turning the natives loose the first night and showing them I would treat them all right if they would only tell me the truth. I think questioning each separately and by my treatment of them I won them over, and I certainly hope the information will prove to be the downfall of Aggie and his suppressed government. Gen. Funston has written thanking me for what I did."

SERIOUS TRAIN WRECK.

Two Firemen Killed and Pullman Cars Take Fire.

OGDEN, Utah, April 8.—News has reached here of a train wreck on the Central Pacific. The wrecked train is the west bound overland limited, due to arrive in San Francisco at 6:55 p. m. today. The scene of the wreck is two miles east of Wells, Nev. Only the most meager details of the disaster have reached here, but it is learned that two firemen were killed. The engines and some of the cars were badly smashed and that the Pullmans caught fire. It is not thought that there were any fatalities among the passengers, as none have been reported to division headquarters. The train was drawn by two locomotives, both of which suffered severely. The cause of the accident is unknown.

THE BEGINNING.

The welcome news was published in the Sunday Post-Dispatch that plans had been completed to incorporate the company and launch the Fair.

The company will be incorporated with a subscribed capital of $5,000,000, which may be increased to $6,000,000. If to this are added the city and national subscriptions of $5,000,000 each and the state appropriation of $1,000,000 the investment is swelled to $16,000,000. Besides this are the appropriations by 45 states and the expenditures by foreign governments and exhibitors. All told probably not less than $25,000,000 will be poured into St. Louis during the next two years, not counting private investments attracted by the Fair.

The prospect is alluring. St. Louis will take rank as one of the great cities of the world—a commercial center of greatest importance.

What this means will be borne in upon all who look back with regret at the long years of municipal dilapidation which, let us hope, are closed forever.

In 1879 the United States paid $23,664,428.92 in pensions. In 1900 these figures were increased to $138,463,130.65. The highest amount paid in any year was in 1893, when the figures were $156,906,637.94. With all these millions distributed annually there should be a good deal of prosperity if prosperity can be brought about by government disbursements.

THE POWER OF HABIT.

A correspondent writing in Saturday's Post-Dispatch "objects, not to tobacco, but to the habit. No man with the tobacco habit can feel free. He is unquestionably a slave."

This is probably the greatest evil of any bad habit. It may impair the health or undermine the morals. But the worst is that it destroys freedom.

Health may be recovered and morality re-established, but what can a man really do if he is not free, if he is enslaved by a habit which, harmless in itself, yet dominates him and controls his life?

Before any practice ripens into habit this should be considered: Will it make me any less master of myself? The man who can't do as his own intelligent will directs is not the man to exert any beneficent or healthy influence in the world. He is virtually a derelict and the first great wave of circumstance will swallow him up.

The mayor of Homestead, Pa., with his order that women out shopping on Saturday night shall not stop on the street and gossip, may be endeavoring to make a presidential record, but he can scarcely expect to carry those states which have adopted woman suffrage.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The annual report of Librarian Crunden of the Public Library is gratifying evidence that the increased library facilities to be provided under the terms of the Carnegie gift will be fully appreciated by the people of St. Louis.

The issue of books for home reading was 707,823 volumes and the total issue of books and periodicals was 976,675. The strike kept many from the library during its continuance. Had it not been for this disturbance the growth would have been still more marked.

The efficiency of the library suffers most seriously, however, from the lack of an adequate maintenance fund. This is now obviated by the vote last Tuesday, doubling the library appropriation, which will hereafter be $150,000 a year.

In his letter to Mayor Ziegenhein, Mr. Lehman, President of the Board, expresses the hope and belief that the Exposition site can be obtained for the Central Library, and that citizens either singly or through neighborhood associations will donate the branches.

All classes of citizens are greatly interested in the library since Mr. Carnegie's offer was announced, and there is little doubt that within the next few years St. Louis will have one of the completest free library systems in the country.

Champ Clark has attained. At last he has achieved the greatness to which he aspired so long. He drank three bottles of "the best allround medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter" and got himself quoted to that effect. Bitters and five-cent cigars—they are the tests of greatness.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY SYSTEM.

Almost unnoticed the rural free delivery system has grown up within the past five years until now it is one of the most important branches of the postal department.

In 1897 $40,000 was appropriated. For 1902 Congress has appropriated $3,500,000, and before midsummer the number of routes will be 5000.

Even this is only a beginning. The need will grow with its satisfaction. Within the next ten years we may expect every farmhouse in the country to be in daily communication with the outside world by means of this service. It is one of the most profitable, as it is one of the most beneficent, public services.

◆◆◆

The public library on the Exposition ground would be convenient to the street-car lines, it would be easily reached by visitors to St. Louis, and the city would be beautified.

CONTROL OF HUSBANDS.

From Germany comes the news that some of the women of Berlin have organized an Association for the Control of Husbands.

This is alarming, because the German women have up to this time been noted for domesticity. They have not been prominent as New Women. They have given more attention to kraut than to clubs, and the German man has gone on his way without any disquieting tremors as to his future as Lord of Creation.

But isn't the Berlin women's Association unnecessary? Do not women, even German women, really control their husbands? And would they do it any better if organized in a club with a resounding name?

In fact, such a club might have the effect of diminishing the control by wives of their husbands. As now exercised, that control is mild, but firm, leaving husbands under the delusion that they are their own masters. To organize the wives is merely to make manifest to the husbands the existence of the yoke. Will they not then cast it off?

It is impossible on any ground of honor or honesty to justify failure to pay World's Fair subscriptions except that of absolute inability to pay. The obligation has all the binding force of a business obligation, with an honor obligation added. On the basis of the subscriptions the World's Fair committeemen have proceeded to obtain aid from Congress, from the city and the state and to complete all the preliminary work. They depended upon the good faith, business integrity and honor of the subscribers. We do not believe that many subscribers will violate this obligation and we cannot conceive how any, having a full sense of its strength, can do so. Prompt payment is the duty of every subscriber. Pay up.

REASONS FOR A PARK SITE ORDINANCE.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch gave a number of convincing reasons for the adoption of another ordinance offering the use of a park as a World's Fair site, but carefully guarding the interests of the city. They may be summarized as follows:

Because the World's Fair is a St. Louis undertaking in which St. Louis capital is heavily invested, and the reputation of St. Louis is involved, the city should do all in its power to help the World's Fair.

Because the choice of a park may give the World's Fair the best possible site.

Because the offer of a park may prevent the hold-up of the World's Fair Company by land speculators.

Because the purchase of sufficient land for a site within the limits of St. Louis would be a heavy draft on the capital of the World's Fair, and would consume money which could be used to great advantage in building and ground improvements.

Because experience demonstrates that a World's Fair would improve rather than injure a park.

Because trees are desirable additions to World's Fair grounds, and the landscape gardening being in the hands of experts, there is little danger of the destruction of the natural advantages of the park. If Forest Park is chosen only about one-third of the park will be necessary.

The permanent interests of the city with regard to the improvement of the park and guarding against the granting of permanent railway or other privileges deterimental to the ordinary use of the park should be carefully protected in the ordinance.

In Cassier's Magazine the industrial depression in Great Britain is accounted for by the wars in South Africa and China; by the law regarding the labeling of all foreign goods with the name of the country exporting them; by the law preventing any road locomotive from running more than four miles an hour; by legislation affecting electric lighting and tram work; by the workmen's compensation act; by laws affecting shipping, and by trades union rules. It isn't Mr. Dingley's tariff, after all, that has been putting back British trade.

◆◆◆

The frank proposition of the New Orleans gamblers to pay the city $4000 a month for the privilege of keeping gambling dens open is much more decent than the police bribery schemes that obtain in other cities. In this case the gamblers pay directly to the city and lighten taxation. Nothing goes into a city treasury with the bribery system.

THE NEWEST BOOKS.

THE fifth volume of Putnam's "Heroes of the Reformation" series is "Huldreich Zwingle," by Samuel Macauley Jackson, professor of church history in New York University.

The book is the fruit of many years' labor. It is intended to give the general reader the principal facts of his life, but many notes and references are designed for the special student. The author confines himself to facts and ignores conjecture. "An Historical Survey of Switzerland Before the Reformation," by Prof. John Martin Vincent, presents a useful historical background. The book is a worthy companion of the Luther, Melancthon and other volumes of the series. (Published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.)

PROF. GEORGE C. COMSTOCK of the University of Wisconsin has written "A Text-book of Astronomy," which is one of the twentieth century text-books published by D. Appleton & Co. This work, as the author explains, is neither a compendium nor a course of popular reading. It is intended to be of practical use to the student who desires accurate knowledge. With its numerous fine illustrations and simple style, however, the book is quite attractive to the general reader, whether for reference or study. It contains 391 pages, yet is of convenient size. It is well printed and contains star maps, portraits of noted astronomers and other matter of interest on the subject.

THE charming series of Beacon biographies is enriched by that of Father Hecker by Henry D. Sedgwick, Jr. The materials for this little sketch are drawn almost entirely from "The Life of Father Hecker" by Father Walter Elliott, which aroused so much interest a few years ago. This brief outline will be of great value to those who feel an interest in the metaphysical adventures of a soul seeking the truth, as likewise those who watch with keenest attention the religious and spiritual condition of this country.

Another volume in this series is the biography of Louis Agassiz by Alice Bache Gould. This is a graphic account of a laborious and very resultful life. (Published by Small, Maynard & Co., Boston.)

GERTRUDE POTTER DANIELS, the daughter of a large stockholder in the billion dollar steel trust, is the author of a problem novel, "The Warners," which has received much attention because of Mrs. Daniels' social position.

It tells the story of a poor boy who gained a competence through honest effort, but whose life was wrecked by the machinations of a trust magnate. The hero then becomes a rabid anarchist, and the story winds up with a picture of his meeting, bomb in hand, with the man who is responsible for his ruin.

One of the principal characters in the story is a socialist who believes in violence, but whose teachings make no impression on the hero until monopoly has so wronged him as to produce desperation.

Mrs. Daniels is the author of "Halamar," and her sister, Margaret Horton Potter, caused a sensation some months ago by her romance, "A Social Lion," which scored high life in Chicago. Jamieson-Higgins Co., Chicago, are the publishers of these books.

LITERARY NOTES.

Madam Sarah Grand is coming to America to see the country and to lecture, according to the April Current Literature.

M. Anatole France's latest production, "Monsieur Bergeret a Paris," is said to have attained its thirty-ninth edition in three days.

"Hetty Wesley" is to be the title of Mr. Quiller-Couch's new novel—a Wesleyan novel, for the purposes of which he has made extremely careful studies.

Mr. Laurence Houseman explicitly denies that he wrote "An Englishwoman's Love Letters." Nobody who knows his work could believe that he had a hand in them.

"Considerations on Painting," is the modest title of a volume by John La Forge, being lectures given in the year 1895 at the Metropolitan Museum of New York. These lectures abound in suggestions, criticism, philosophy and anecdote. The book is one which will appeal to artist and student. Published by Macmillan Co., New York.

Current Literature states that Mr. S. R. Crockett has broken down from overwork. He has been ordered by his physician to write no more for some time, and has left England for a holiday in the south of Europe. Mr. Gilbert Parker—let us not forget to add M. P.—is another man who has been doing too much work and has been sent to Egypt for his health.

It is some years since Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett has published a story serially. Special interest attaches, therefore, to the announcement that the June, July and August numbers of The Century will contain a romance from her pen. Its title is "The Making of a Marchioness;" its scene is laid in an English country house, and it is described as "a sort of society fairy story without fairies."

It is said that the streets of Chicago have never been pictured more clearly nor the life that surges along them interpreted more faithfully than is done in Will Payne's new novel, "The Story of Eva," which will be issued from the Riverside Press (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.), early in April. As a piece of literary work it is a book of which the West may be proud, and in its insight into life it recalls Tolstoi and Thomas Hardy—of whom it alsoreminds the reader by which combined daring and dignity with which it treats certain aspects of love and marriage.

Thomas Hardy, the novelist, is quoted by The Pall Mall Magazine as saying that he has no sympathy with the criticism which would treat English as a dead language—"a thing crystallized at an arbitrarily selected stage of its existence and bidden to forget that it has a past and deny that it has a future." "Purism," he added, "whether in grammar or vocabulary, almost always means ignorance. Language was made before grammar, not grammar before language. And as for the people who make it their business to insist on the utmost possible impoverishment of our English vocabulary, they seem to me to ignore the lessons of history, science and common sense."

"Expectoration and Climate."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Replying to another "smoker" in tonight's issue, allow me to state that the excessive "spittings" he complained of, and which he lays to the climate as the principal cause, is nothing but a bad and vicious habit; one that can be easily broken if you have will power enough to do it.

I have never lived across the Atlantic, but have always lived right here in St. Louis and can safely assert that at no time and in no place have I expectorated, from any causes. Of course I mean wilfully. There are times when it is necessary, such as accidentally getting a frog in your throat, or an insect flies into your mouth. But what I refer to is this incessant spitting which we see men doing every day, from no cause whatever. They are not even smoking.

In my humble estimation it is nervousness and the parties doing it are unaware that they are doing it. If they were checked up good and hard they would stop the nasty habit, for habit only is what it is.

ONE MORE SMOKER.

Is This So?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Woman, the most troublesome and inconsistent of God's creations, is the subject of my remarks.

To my mind woman is an animated lie. Her very training forces this infliction on her. As a mere child a girl begins to practice, either through training, intuition or inheritance, petty evasions and harmless lies.

To state facts as they are is considered in a girl as being rude and bold. When she is well up in her teens she has so well developed the habit of prevarication that she can lie with the seraphic sweetness of an angel.

To see a girl at this age distorting and furbishing facts is one of the pitiable exhibitions of a degenerate character.

When she has reached 30 she becomes more bold and indifferent to the impression her vitiated mind makes on observers.

The delicateness and timidity of her early youth are forgotten and the full-grown result of a destructive system of character-building is laid bare.

Teach girls honesty, candor and a true appreciation of the whole truth and nothing but the truth, then we will have women whose company will be a real pleasure, and whose claims to God-like attributes will have a more substantial foundation.

A MAN.

Young Widows' Inqury.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am a young widow, at present employed as stenographer at a salary of $50, and, being but recently informed of an opportunity whereby my monthly earnings will be increased to $60, namely: accepting a similar position with another firm, who have a male stenographer in their employ, at a salary of $75, whose services the above referred to firm are desirous of discontinuing, unknown to him, would appreciate advice as to whether or not my accepting the offer would be fair to the young man, and if I did accept, whether or not I would be justifiable in asking for the same salary as that being paid the other stenographer?

Any sincere suggestions from outsiders will be greatly appreciated by,

FAMOUS SHORT STORIES

JACK AND HIS MASTER

From Celtic Fairy Tales.

A POOR woman had three sons. The eldest and second eldest were cunning, clever fellows, but they called the youngest Jack the Fool, because they thought he was no better than face on him, and he was as cross ing at home, and said he'd go look for service. He stayed away a whole year, and then came back one day, dragging one foot after the other, and a poor wizened a simpleton. The eldest got tired of stay- as two sticks. When he was rested and got something to eat, he told them how he got service with the Gray Churl of the Townland of Mischance, and that the agrement was, whoever would first say he was sorry for his bargain, should get an inch wide of the skin of his back, from shoulder to hips, taken off. If it was the master, he should also pay double wages; if it was the servant, he should get no wages at all. "But the thief," says he, "gave me so little to eat, and kept me so hard at work, that flesh and blood couldn't stand it; and when he asked me once, when I was in a passion, if I was sorry for my bargain, I was mad enough to say I was, and here I am disabled for life."

Vexed enough were the poor mother and brothers; and the second eldest said on the spot he'd go and take service with the Gray Churl, and punish him by all the annoyance he'd give him till he'd make him say he was sorry for his agreement. "O, won't I be glad to see the skin coming off the old villain's back," said he. All they could say had no effect; he started off for the Townland of Mischance, and in a twelvemonth he was back just as miserable and helpless as his brother.

All the poor mother could say didn't prevent Jack the Fool from starting to see if he was able to regulate the Gray Churl. He agreed with him for a year for twenty pounds, and the terms were the same.

"Now, Jack," said the Gray Churl, "if you refuse to do anything you are able to do, you must lose a month's wages."

"I'm satisfied," said Jack; "and if you stop me from doing a thing after telling me to do it, you are to give me an additional month's wages."

"I am satisfied," says the master.

"Or if you blame me for obeying your orders, you must give the same."

"I am satisfied," said the master again.

The first day that Jack served he was fed very poorly, and was worked to the saddleskirts. Next day he came in just before the dinner was sent up to the parlor. They were taking the goose off the spit, but well becomes Jack he whips a knife off the dresser, and cuts off one side of the breast, one leg and thigh, and one wing, and fell to. In came the master and began to abuse him for his assurance. "O, you know, master, you're to feed me, and wherever the goose goes won't have to be filled again till supper. Are you sorry for our agreement?"

The master was going to cry out he was, but he bethought himself in time. "O no, not at all," said he.

"That's well," said Jack.

Next day Jack was to go clamp turf on the bog. They weren't sorry to have him away from the kitchen at dinner time. He didn't find his breakfast very heavy on his stomach, so he said to the mistress, "I think, ma'am, it will be better for me to get my dinner now, and not lose time coming home from the bog."

"That's true, Jack," said she. So she brought out a good cake, and a print of butter, and a bottle of milk, thinking he'd take them away to the bog. But Jack kept his seat, and never drew rein till bread, butter and milk went down the red lane.

"Now, mistress," said he, "I'll be earlier at my work tomorrow if I sleep comfortably on the shelter side of a pile of dry peat on dry grass, and not be coming here and going back. So you may as well give me my supper, and be done with the day's trouble." She gave him that, thinking he'd take it to the bog; but he fell to on the spot, and did not leave a scrap to tell tales on him; and the mistress was a little astonished.

He called to speak to the master in the haggard, and said he: "What are servants asked to do in this country after aten their supper?"

"Nothing at all, but go to bed."

"O, very well, sir." He went up on the stable loft, stripped, and lay down, and someone that saw him told the master. He came up.

"Jack, you anointed scoundrel, what do you mean?"

"To go to sleep, master. The mistress, God bless her, is after giving me my breakfast, dinner and supper, and yourself told me that bed was the next thing. Do you blame me, sir?"

"Yes, you rascal, I do."

"Hand me out one pound thirteen and fourpence, if you please, sir."

"One divel and thirteen imps, you tinker! what for?"

"O, I see, you've forgot your bargain. Are you sorry for it?"

"O, ya—no, I mean. I'll give you the money after your nap."

Next morning early, Jack asked how he'd be employed that day. "You are to be holding the plow in that fallow, outside the paddock." The master went over about 9 o'clock to see what kind of a plowman was Jack, and what did he see but the little boy driving the bastes, and the sock and coulter of the plow skimming along the sod, and Jack pulling ding-dong again' the horses.

"What are you doing, you contrary thief?" said the master.

"An' ain't I strivin' to hold this divil of a plow, as you told me; but that ounkrawn of a boy keeps whipping on the bastes in spite of all I say; will you speak to him?"

"No, but I'll speak to you. Didn't you know, you bosthoon, that when I said 'holding the plow,' I meant reddening the ground."

"Faith, an' if you did, I wish you had said so. Do you blame me for what I have done?"

The master caught himself in time, but he was so stomached, he said nothing.

"Go on and redden the ground now, you knave, as other plowmen do."

"An' are you sorry for our agreement?"

"O, not at all, not at all!"

Jack plowed away like a good workman all the rest of the day.

In a day or two the master bade him go and mind the cows in a field that had half of it under young corn. "Be sure, particularly," said he, "to keep Browney from the wheat; while she's out of mischief there's no fear of the rest."

About noon, he went to see how Jack was doing his duty, and what did he find but Jack asleep with his face to the sod, Browney grazing near a thorn tree, one end of a long rope round her horns, and the other end round the tree, and the rest of the beasts all trampling and eating the green wheat. Down came the switch on Jack.

"Jack, you vagabone, do you see what the cows are at?"

"And do you blame, master?"

"To be sure, you lazy sluggard, I do?"

"Hand me out one pound thirteen and fourpence, master. You said if I only kept Browney out of mischief, the rest would do no harm. There she is as harmless as a lamb. Are you sorry for hiring me, master?"

"To be—that is, not at all. I'll give you your money when you go to dinner. Now, understand me; don't let a cow go out of the field nor into the wheat the rest of the day."

"Never fear, master!" and neither did he. But the churl would rather than a great deal he had not hired him.

The next day three heifers were missing and the master bade Jack to go in search of them.

"Where will I look for them?" said Jack.

"O, every place likely and unlikely for them all to be in."

The churl was getting very exact in his words. When he was coming into the bawn at dinner time, what work did he find Jack at but pulling armfuls of the thatch off the roof, and peeping into the holes he was making?"

"What are you doing there, you rascal?"

"Sure, I'm looking for the heifers, poor things!"

"What would bring them there?"

"I don't think anything could bring them in it; but I looked first into the likely places, that is, the cowhouses, and the pastures, and the fields next 'em, and now I'm looking in the unlikeliest place I can think of. Maybe it's not pleasing to you it is?"

"And to be sure it isn't pleasing to me, you aggravating goose-cap!"

"Please, sir, hand me one pound thirteen and four pence before you sit down to your dinner. I'm afraid it's sorrow that's on you for hiring me at all."

"May the div—oh, no; I'm not sorry! Will you begin, if you please, and put in the thatch again, just as if you were doing it for your mother's cabin?"

"O, faith I will, sir, with a heart and a half;" and by the time the farmer came out from his dinner, Jack had the roof better than it was before, for he made the boy give him new straw.

Says the master when he came out, "Go, Jack, and look for the heifers, and bring them home."

"And where will I look for 'em?"

"Go search for them as if they were your own." The heifers were all in the paddock before sunset.

Next morning, says the master, "Jack, the path across the bog to the pasture is very bad; the sheep does be sinking in it every step; go and make the sheep's feet a good path." About an hour after he came to the edge of the bog, and what did he find Jack at but sharpening a carving knife, and the sheep standing or grazing round.

"Is this the way you are mending the path, Jack?" said he.

"Everything must have a beginning, master," said Jack, "and a thing well begun is half done. I am sharpening the knife, and I'll have the feet off every sheep in the flock while you'd be blessing yourself."

"Feet off my sheep, you anointed rogue! and what would you be taking their feet off for?"

"An' sure to mend the path as you told me. Says you, 'Jack, make a path with the foot of the sheep.'"

"O, you fool, I meant make good the path for the sheep's feet."

"It's a pity you didn't say so, master. Hand me out one pound thirteen and fourpence if you don't like me to finish my job."

"Divel do you good with your one pound thirteen and fourpence!"

"It's better pray than curse, master. Maybe you're sorry for your bargain?"

"And to be sure I am—not yet, any way."

The next night the master was going to a wedding; and says he to Jack, before he set out: "I'll leave at midnight, and I wish you to come and be with me home, for fear I might be overtaken with the drink. If you're there before, you may throw a sheep's eye at me, and I'll be sure to see that they'll give you something for yourself."

About 11 o'clock, while the master was in great spirts, he felt something clammy hit him on the cheek. It fell beside his tumbler, and when he looked at it what was it but the eye of a sheep. Well, he couldn't imagine who threw it at him, or why it was thrown at him. After a little he got a blow on the other cheek, and still it was by another sheep's eye. Well, he was very vexed, but he thought better to say nothing. In two minutes more, when he was opening his mouth to take a sup, another sheep's eye was slapped into it. He sputtered it out, and cried: "Man o' the house, isn't it a great shame for you to have anyone in the room that would do such a nasty thing?"

"Master," says Jack, "don't blame the honest man. Sure it's only myself that was throwin' them sheep's eyes at you, to remind you I was here, and that I wanted to drink the bride and bridegroom's health. You know yourself bade me."

"I know that you are a great rascal; and where did you get the eyes?"

"An' where would I get em' but in the heads of your own sheep? Would you have me meddle with the bastes of any neighbor, who might put me in the Stone Jug for it?"

"Sorry on me that ever I had the bad luck to meet with you."

"You're all witness," said Jack, "that my master says he is sorry for having met with me. My time is up. Master, hand me over double wages, and come into the next room, and lay yourself out like a man that has some decency in him, till I take a strip of skin an inch broad from your shoulder to your hip."

Everyone shouted out against that; but, says Jack, "You didn't hinder him when he took the same strips from the backs of my two brothers, and sent them home in that state, and penniless, to their poor mother."

When the company heard the rights of the business, they were only too eager to see the job done. The master bawled and roared, but there was no help at hand. He was stripped to his hips, and laid on the floor in the next room, and Jack had the carving knife in his hand ready to begin.

"Now, you cruel old villain," he said, giving the knife a couple of scrapes along the floor. "I'll make you an offer. Give me, along with my double wages, two hundred guineas to support my poor brothers, and I'll do without the strap."

"No!" said he, "I'd let you skin me from head to foot first."

"Here goes then," said Jack with a grin, but the first little scar he gave, Churl roared out, "Stop your hand; I'll give the money."

"Now, neighbors," said Jack, "you mustn't think worse of me than I deserve. I wouldn't have the heart to take an eye out of a rat itself; I got half a dozen of them from the butcher, and only used three of them."

So all came again into the other room, and Jack was made sit down, and everybody drank his health, and he drank everybody's health at one offer. And six stout fellows saw himself and the master home, and waited in the parlor while he went up and brought down the two hundred guineas, and double wages for Jack himself. When he got home, he brought the summer along with him to the poor mother and the disabled brothers; and he was no more Jack the Fool in the people's mouths, but "Skin Churl Jack."

WITH THE

POST-DISPATCH POETS.

A WORD OF THANKS.

(Being a brief reflection on the Easter reformation of Weather Prophet Hyatt, whose meteorological product for one day was perfect.)

O Dr. Hyatt,
When you try it
You can be pleasant, ain't it,
And grant us days
Deserving praise
So rich that none can paint it!

You have a knack
Of "getting back"
At those who cross your wishes,
And make it rain
Until we fain
Would turn to ducks or fishes.

But when you try it,
O wondrous Hyatt,
Unless you choose to freeze us,
No weather brand
In all the land
Can more entirely please us.

Did Easter bring
A wish for spring,
Or was 't a touch of piety,
Or did you, sir,
At rain demur,
And long for Sol's society?

MARRIED IN 39 SECONDS

Missouri Couple Created a New Record.

GROOM CALM AND COLLECTED

THE JUSTCE ALSO COLLECTED TO THE EXTENT OF $2.50 FEE.

The Contracting Parties, Both From St. Charles, Were in a Hurry to Catch Trains to the North and the South.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Justice M. R. M. Wallace made a record Saturday night of marrying a couple in 39 seconds. They were in a hurry to catch a train, or, rather, two trains. The groom went to Michigan and bride to Missouri.

As the bridal couple stood before the venerable magistrate in the parlor of his Michigan avenue home it was plainly visible that they were from the country. The groom was as calm as if he were waiting his turn in a barber shop. His placidity is accounted for by the fact that he was once a justice of the peace himself down in Missouri, and the marrying business was not new to him.

The bride was slightly nervous. She had come all the way from St. Charles, Mo., and was tired from the long journey. Whether it was a sigh or a deep, long breath that escaped from her lips as she stood up to have the marriage knot tied those present could not say. Although the room was cold she used her handkerchief continually to remove the perspiration from her forehead. There was a look of determination in her face that seemed to say:

"Well, I've gone this far and I'm going to go through with it."

She clinched her teeth as the white-haired justice began the wedding ceremony.

The groom was Harry A. Tanner of Soo Junction, Mich. He is a telegraph operator for the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railroad.

He also takes care of the switches, sells local tickets and makes out freight waybills. His position is no sinecure.

Up to six weeks ago Mr. Tanner lived at Briscoe, Mo. This town in 10 miles from St. Charles as the crow flies. According to his buff-colored business cards he was quite prominent in that vicinity. He was notary public and justice of the peace, and in the left-hand upper corner of the card the announcement was made that deeds were carefully written.

Miss Ella Baker, the bride, is 23 years old. She would be taken for a school teacher. Her hair is black and she wears it in a fashion becoming to pretty country maidens.

When Mr. Tanner left Missouri to go to Soo Junction he told his sweetheart that they would get married at the first opportunity. Arrangements were made by letter for the meeting, which took place yesterday afternoon in Chicago.

It was late when the marriage license was secured, and after supper the happy couple started out to find a magistrate. Lieutenant Rohan of the Central Station directed them to Justice Wallace.

After the knot was tied the groom asked. "How much do I owe you?"

Justice Wallace did not hear the question, or at least he made no reply.

The groom repeated the query and the judge smilingly replied:

"Oh, I'll leave that to you. You've been a justice and you ought to know the fee."

Mr. Tanner counted out $2.50, and asked if that was satisfactory. It was.

As the couple went away the groom shook Justice Wallace by the hand and said:

"Good-by; I hope to see you again."

"There's nothing in that for me," said the gray-haired magistrate after the couple had gone. "Mrs. Wallace gets all marriage fees up to $2.50. I get anything over that."

ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN.

Obstructions Piled on the Track Near Boise, Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, April 8.—An attempt was made to wreck No. 1 westbound Short Line passenger train tonight at Malad Bridge, 100 miles east of here. A large number of ties were piled on the track. The engineer did not see the obstruction in time to stop the train. The pilot of the engine was damaged and brakebeams were broken under some of the cars.

A delay of about an hour ensued. It was a narrow escape from a serious disaster. It is believed that the ties were piled on the track by highwaymen, intending to rob the train. The scene of the wreck is the point where a very bad wreck occurred about three years ago.

FAST LIVING.

We Americans are a nation of fast livers. We hurry down to work, we hustle in our business, we eat rapidly, we drink fast, and think quickly. We are always on our mettle, always ready to respond, always with our energies keyed to the highest pitch. This continuous strain has resulted in making us a nation of weak hearts. The percentage of death from heart disease in our large cities is stupendous. It almost surpasses human belief. Many cases of death that are reported to have been caused by stomach trouble, by liver trouble, by diseases of the blood are really cases of heart failure. It is caused by overwork, by living too fast, by the continual strain of mental anxiety or of business troubles that come into some of our lives. The doctors are wrong. They treat the stomach, they treat the liver, or they treat the blood, whereas the seat of the trouble is in the heart.

Perhaps you are a sufferer from heart disease, and have felt these symptoms without knowing what they meant. Perhaps your heart flutters or palpitates, perhaps you have shortness of breath, a pressed feeling in the chest, choking sensation in the throat, fainting spells, dizziness, spots before the eyes, bad turns, inability to lie on the left side, sudden starting in sleep, cold hands or feet, swelling of the ankles. If so, you should not delay one instant. You should buy at once a $1.00 box of Dr. Kinsman's Heart Tablets. They are a guaranteed cure that will prevent this fatal and dread disease.

Mrs. L. E. Pickett of Astoria, Mo., writes: "For five years I suffered with heart trouble, and doctors could do me no good. I had lost all hopes of living, and God only knows what I suffered at times. I could not lie down, had fainting spells and other symptoms and they were growing worse all the time. Although I had no faith in Dr. Kinsman's Heart Tablets, I used them to please my friends and can say today that I am cured by their use and hope every sufferer will try them."

If your druggist does not have them, write to Dr. F. G. Kinsman, 242 Water street, Augusta, Me., inclosing a stamp for postage, and he will send you a free trial box of Heart Tablets, with over 1000 references and testimonials. Among these you may find some friend, neighbor or acquaintance whose life has been saved through their use

BEARS MADE A QUICK RAID

Intense Excitement in New York Stock Market.

LET THE BOTTOM DROP OUT

SALE OF 100 SHARES OF BURLINGTON CAUSED A DROP.

As Soon as the Bears Gained Their Point and Took Their Profits the Market Made a Quick Jump Up Again.

NEW YORK, April 8.—An organized bear party of stock operators executed a well-planned raid upon the market this morning and upset many top-heavy speculative accounts, wiping out margins and uncovering stop-loss orders, which dislodged an avalanche of stocks and enabled the bears to realize quick profits on a handsome scale.

The market looked decidedly demoralized in the opening dealings and the slump in prices, especially in the last week's speculative favorites, looked for a few minutes as though the bottom had dropped out of the market.

A sale of 100 shares served to cause a drop of 2¼ points in Rock Island and Burlington slumped 2 points between sales.

Within a few minutes of the opening Rock Island sold 6¼ points below Thursday's closing price and 11¾ below the top price of Thursday's excited market. Burlington lost an extreme 3¾, New York Central and Manhattan 3¼ each, St. Paul 3, Delaware & Hudson 5 and Colorado Fuel 3¼. A large number of the principal active stocks were depressed from 2 to 3 points.

The market was thrown into intense excitement and speculators became highly nervous and sold stocks in the fear that the final culmination of the great bull movement, which has long been foretold, had arrived.

Meanwhile the successful bears began to buy in stocks, satisfied with the quick profits yielded by their sudden raid, and there were violent recoveries reaching from 2 to 3½ in many of the principal stocks. The recovery was aided by an upward spurt in Sugar to 3 points over Thursday. The smelting stocks made a violent recovery from recent weakness, the common rising 9 and the preferred 5½, and then reacting.

It was evident that last week's speculation had left the market vulnerable by an over-extension of weakly margined accounts and constant reinvestment of paper profits on the advance, in the form known to speculators as pyramiding. The three days' interval since the last trading had brought into play a number of factors which induced a nervous feeling amongst the thinly margined speculators. The most important of these was the Saturday bank statement, showing heavy inroads upon cash reserves of the banks by reason of the large interior demand for currency.

Uneasiness was caused by the threat of a strike on the New Jersey Central. The reports of gross earnings of railroads for the last week in March showed decreases for a number of important systems. The bearish mood developed by the slump induced large attention for all unfavorable factors.

The market quieted down considerably after the causes of the decline were perceived, but the undertone continued nervous and feverish and there was no aggressive disposition shown to follow up the rally.

HIS ANNUITY ENDS AT LAST.

John Jeffry, Who Drew $22,000 From a Railroad, Is Dead.

CHICAGO, April 8.—John Jeffry is dead and the officials of the Michigan Central, particularly the treasurer, are breathing sighs of relief. Jeffry's fame rested in the assertion that he was the "only man to beat the railroad."

Jeffrys, who was 73 years old, received an annuity of $1000 for injuries received in a wreck, and, though his death was considered imminent twenty years ago, he lived to enjoy his income and chuckle over the way in which he bested the railroad company for nearly a quarter of a century. The company which supported Jeffrys was the Michigan Central. The wreck occurred at Jackson, Mich., in 1879, and he received altogether $22,000 from the company. Jeffrys is supposed to have been a Confederate soldier, but he left no relatives behind, and in his lifetime was reticent about his career.

Jeffrys came to Chicago about fifteen years ago and engaged lodgings at 211 North State street. Prodigal with his money while it lasted, he spent weeks in penury to pay for his fun. With the first of each year a check for $1000 would come to him, and each time he would relate the story of how "he beat the railroad" to a crowd of interested listeners.

ECONOMY IN TRANSPORTATION.

Private Steamer Lines May Take Government's Cuban Business.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Bids for the transportation of troops and supplies between here and Havana, Matanzas, Cienfuegos, Santiago, Manzanillo, Gibara and Nuevitas in Cuba, and San Juan, Porto Rico, have been asked by Col. A. S. Kimball, United States depot quartermaster, in this city.

Appended to the circular proposal issued is a table which shows that the army transports carried approximately, between Jan. 1 and March 31, to Cuba, 5121 tons of supplies and 876 passengers, and to Porto Rico, 605 tons of supplies and 400 passengers. It is believed that if bids of the steamship companies are reasonable it will be better to have the 1300 passengers and the 6000 tons of supplies, which would make cargoes for two coastwise steamers, carried by private companies, than to support a fleet of four or five steamers and a clerical force and to hire a pier at a rental of $40,000 a year for the purpose of doing this work.

AGED WOMAN ASSAULTED.

Her Skull Crushed in at Kansas City With a Coupling Pin.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—A footpad last night attacked Mrs. Isabel Thompson, aged 67 years, and in an attempt to rob her, crushed in her skull with a coupling pin.

She was returning home from church when assaulted at Seventeenth and Holmes streets, an unfrequented part of the city. She was found after midnight, after having lain unconscious for several hours. Mrs. Thompson is at the city hospital in a dying condition. There is no clew to the identity of the footpad.

During the winter eight people have been more or less injured by footpads. One of the victims, an elderly woman, has become insane, and another, a Kansas City (Kan.) grocer, died of his injuries. The victims in every case save one have been elderly people, and each was rendered senseless by a blow on the head.

SIEGRIST RESIDENCE SOLD.

Property Is in Wesmoreland Place With Three Frontages.

The Mercantile Trust Co. has sold the H. A. Siegrist dwelling and grounds in Westmoreland place to a client whose identity is not disclosed, the title passing for the present to Festus J. Wade, trustee.

The house contains 18 rooms. The lot has frontages of 200 feet on Westmoreland place, 450 feet on King's highway and 2.0 feet on Forest Park terrace.

The price at which the property sold was not made public.

Imports of Grain at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, April 8.—The imports of grain last week (incomplete) were as follows:

From Atlantic ports 57,000 quarters, Pacific ports, 6000; other ports, 14,000 quarters.

The imports of corn from Atlantic ports last week (incomplete) were 41,400 quarters.

CORN SHORTS COVER

A RALLY IN CORN STEADIES OTHER CEREALS.

FLUCTUATIONS WERE SMALL

Trade Was Light and Futures, Moving Through a Narrow Range, Closed With Small Change.

All grain futures closed steady, under a much improved demand. The early strength of the corn market was responsible for a steadier range in the futures of the fine grains, and later the demand for these futures improved and much better prices were in order.

Wheat and flour clearances for the day were 1,651,000 bu, corn 441,332 bu and oats 129,853 bu.

The wheat visible supply showed a decrease of 859,000 bu, corn a decrease of 397,000 bu and oats an increase of 242,000 bu.

May wheat closed ⅛c up for the day and July unchanged. May corn closed ¼c up and July ¼c. May oats closed unchanged for the day.

There was heavy pressure on the wheat market in the early part of today's session. Weak longs were anxious to stop-loss their trades, and sentiment was generally in favor of a lower market. Later futures grew much steadier working up above the previous close, corn showing a steady tone and the demand for the fine grain showing some improvement.

May wheat opened at 70¼c to 70c and then sold at 70⅛c, 70c, 69⅞c, 69⅞c, 70c, 70⅛c, 70¼c, 70⅛@70¼c, 70¼c, 70⅛c, 70⅛@70½c and at 70⅝c. The future then fell back to 70¼c.

July opened at 68⅞c and sold down to 68⅝@68¾c and then rallied back to 68⅞c and went to 68⅞@69c.

World's wheat shipments for the past week were 8,101,000 bu, compared with 8,575,000 bu the previous week and 6,997,000 bu the same week last year. Wheat on passage for the week shows an increase of 1,406,000 bu.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis today were 29,808 bu, compared with 27,860 bu same date last year. Of these, 448 sacks and 27 cars were local, compared with 382 sacks and 36 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth today were 411 cars, as compared with 608 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary points today were 591,000 bu, as compared with 499,000 bu same date last year.

Shipments 331,000 bu, compared with 375,000 bu same date last year.

Corn Demand Was Good.

Corn was in good demand today, shorts and the speculative element giving good support. Big short interests were anxious buyers in the early part of the session in the Chicago market and good advances resulting, the local market in sympathy worked higher.

May corn opened at 41⅞c and then sold at 42c, 42⅛c, 42¼c, 42⅜c, 42¼c and 42⅜@42½c.

July opened 42⅜@42⅝c, 42⅝@42¾c, 42⅞c, 42⅞@43c and at 42⅞c.

World's corn shipments for the past week were 3,350,000 bu, compared with 4,607,000 bu the previous and 4,994,000 bu the same week last year.

Of these America shipped 2,990,000 bu, Danube 232,000 bu and Argentine 128,000 bu.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis today were 36,125 bu, compared with 500,050 bu same date last year. Of these 50 sks and 11 cars were local, compared with 100 sks and 459 cars same date last year.

Receipts of corn at primary points today were 241,000 bu, compared with 1,009,000 bu same date last year.

Shipments, 432,000 bu, compared with 423,000 bu same date last year.

No Prices for Oat Futures.

There was no trading in the oats futures till late in the day, even bid and asked prices were not heard and the only figure recorded was a nominal price of 26⅞c for the May future.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis today were 37,200 bu, compared with 87,600 bu same date last year. Of these 19 cars were local, compared with 72 cars same date last year.

Cotton Market Weaker.

Cotton was weak today on scattered profit taking sales. Futures opened a shade lower and then worked off on steady unloading. There were occasional slight recoveries, but the general trend of the market was downward.

May opened 2 points down, July 6 and August 8.

The first line of quotations in each class is calculated to represent the full range from common to extra. Dealers, however, often classify superlative bunches (all tops) for buyers, which sometimes sell considerably above the highest quotations. The second line of quotations signifies the bulk of sales and generally represents the various classes as they are sold on the commission market, more or less mixed.

STOCK YARD NOTES.

It is nothing unusual for a shortage of receipts to be felt in the butcher cattle department, but the present week was featured with an extreme tendency in that direction. Buyers were out in full strength and could have handled five times the volume that arrived.

Some 60 cars of cattle were received in the quarantine division today. Most of them were for Texas and Indian Territory.

Receipts in the quarantine division were of an unusually good quality, and included loads from Arkansas, Texas and Indian Territory.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, April 8.—May corn changed hands in heavy quantities at the opening of the market today, selling ¼c to ⅜c lower at 44c to 43⅝c, under the influence of seasonable weather and liberal receipts. The opening rush to sell being over, the market became firmer and more quiet; May reacting to 44⅛@44¼c on a scattered demand. Receipts were 261 cars, 74 of contract grade.

An increase of 1,469,000 bu in the wheat and flour on ocean passage, together with the favorable weather and confidence in predictions of a bumper crop caused still further weakness in the wheat market. May opened ¼c to ⅛c lower at 70⅜c to 70¼c under liberal offerings from bears. Reports of frosts in Germany caused covering by shorts on the decline, and a sharp rally to 70⅞c followed. The corn strength and moderate world's shipments, 8,102,000 bu, had a strengthening effect on the market. Local receipts were 93 cars, none of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 411 cars, against 480 last week and 608 a year ago.

Oats were quiet and sympathized with corn. May opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 25⅝c to 25¾c, and recovered to 25⅞c. Receipts were 211 cars.

Trade in provisions was dull and the tone of the market rather easy. May pork opened 5c lower at $14.80; May lard, 2½c down at $8.37½, and May ribs, 2½c depressed at $8.15.

FINED FOR INTIMIDATING.

George Collins, Electroplater, Appealed From Judge Sidener's Decision.

George E. Collins, an electroplater, was fined $10 by Judge Sidener Monday morning for his conduct in the vicinity of the Imperial Electroplating Co.'s establishment on Morgan street, between First and Second streets, where he was formerly employed.

J. S. McKinley, the manager, testified that Collins attempted to intimidate men who went to the place in answer to advertisements. Henry J. Owen testified that Collins had threatened him with violence if he went to work in the establishment.

Collins denied having molested Owen. He appealed from Judge Sidener's decision.

OTHER LATE APPOINTMENTS.

Eleventh-hour appointments continued Monday at the City Hall. Four of these were from the water department and were approved by President McMath of the board of public improvements. Jacob Finkelstein and B. F. Hart were named as supply inspectors and W. S. Parker and John Leaver as first assistant engineers.

Assessor and Collector of Water Rates Hemmelmann Monday appointed William Troll as district inspector at $90 per month. The appointment was approved by the mayor.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETINGS.

NOTICE—A special meeting of the stockholders of the St. Louis Mining and Milling Co. of Montana is hereby called to meet in the office of the company, Marysville, Lewis and Clarke County, Mont., Monday, April 15, at 12 o'clock noon, to vote on a resolution passed by the board of directors at an adjourned regular meeting, Feb. 5, 1901, to make the stock of said company assessable as provided by the statutes of Montana, and such other matter as may properly come before said meeting.

J. C. SOMERVILLE, President.

Attest: GEO. E. MAYGER, Secretary.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING—The undersigned incorporators hereby give notice that the first meeting of stockholders of the Commonwealth Trust Co. will be held Thursday, April 11, 1901, at 9 o'clock a. m., at the office of Charles H. Turner & Co., in the Wainwright building, in the city of St. Louis, Mo., for the purpose of adopting bylaws and of transacting such other business as may lawfully come before the meeting.

CHAS. H. TURNER,
L. B. TEBBETTS,
GEO. O. CARPENTER,
SAM M. KENNARD,
LAURENCE B. PIERCE.

LEGAL NOTICES.

LEGAL NOTICE—Whereas Alfred Carr, on the 19th day of September, 1898, executed his negotiable promissory note, dated St. Louis, September 19th, 1898, whereby for value received he promised to pay one year after date, to Mary G. Bankhead, twelve hundred and fifty ($1250) dollars, with interest from maturity, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, and at the same time pledged and delivered as collateral security to secure the payment of said note one certain note executed by said Alfred A. Carr, payable to the order of James McCausland, dated September 1st, 1898, due in two years after date for the sum of eighteen hundred ($1800) dollars and secured by deed of trust on the one-third interest of said Alfred Carr in twenty-one thousand acres of land in the counties of Perry, Hickman and Humphreys in the State of Tennessee. Said note to McCausland is endorsed by the payee without recourse, and at the same time by a written instrument said Carr authorized the payee or holder of the said note dated September 19th, 1898, upon default in the payment of same at maturity, to sell or cause to be sold, the said note to McCausland dated September 1st, 1898, in the sum of $1800, at public or private sale, with or without notice or demand of any sort, at such place and on such terms as he may deem best; and whereas payment of said note of $1250 has been demanded and said note is now past due and remains unpaid; now, therefore, the undersigned, the payee and said holder of note, will, in pursuance of the provisions of said written instrument, sell said note dated September 1st, 1898, for $1800, and secured by deed of trust as aforesaid, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, at the east front door of the Courthouse in the City of St. Louis, Mo., on Wednesday, April 17th, 1901, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 2 o'clock p. m. on that day, to satisfy said note.

MARY G. BANKHEAD.

ROBERT L. M'LARAN, Attorney.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6th, 1901.

New Italian Catholic Church.

The Church of Our Lady, Help of Christians, Nineteenth and Morgan streets, the leading Italian Catholic congregation of St. Louis, has received an offer from a wealthy Italian lady to donate a corner lot, 140x150 feet, on which to erect a new church. The property is to be located east of Grand avenue. Father Spicardi has accepted the offer. The church is to cost between $40,000 and $50,000. Mrs. Charlotte Mondi of 3648 Olive street has donated $4000 towards the building.

Soldier's Brief Honeymoon.

A brief honeymoon will be that of L. G. Connelly, a private in the United States regular army, stationed at Jefferson Barracks, who was married by Justice Haughton Monday morning to Miss Edna Forsyth of 502 Carr street. The young soldier is under orders to leave for the Philippines Monday night with his company. The nearness of their separation seemed to have no effect on the spirits of the young people, who, with attending friends, formed a jovial party at the justice's office.

Goes to Havana.—James Arbuckle, manager of the Latin-American club, will leave Thursday night for Havana, Cuba, to study trade conditions there. The directors of the club decided that Mr. Arbuckle should make the trip at their last meeting.

POLICEMEN ACCUSED

CHALLENGERS CHARGE OPPRESSION ON ELECTION DAY.

REPUBLICANS WERE ARRESTED

After Their Acquittal by Judge Clark Four Men Asked That Warrants Be Issued for Policemen.

Applications for warrants were made to the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Monday against four policemen who arrested Republican challengers at the election last Tuesday on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The policemen against whom the complaints were filed are Sergt. Fleming and Patrolmen Sullivan, Dee and Derby of the Fifth police district, commanded by Capt. O'Malley.

The complainants are Val L. Liebig, William Leroy, Edward Goessling and John Amann.

These men were appointed by the Republican committee to serve as challengers at the election. They presented their credentials at polling places in North St. Louis and were accepted as challengers by the Republican judges of election.

The police arrested them on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Warrants were issued against them and Monday in the Court of Criminal Correction Judge Willis Clark discharged them.

Mr. Johnson said that he would take the application under advisement. He said he would first consult with Circuit Attorney Folk as to the advisability of having the cases taken up immediately by the sitting gradjury.
sitting grandjury.
section No. 7354 of the revised statutes covers the offense alleged against the policemen.

This section makes it a felony for the police to interfere with the officers of election or to take any of them away from the polls. The minimum punishment in case of a conviction is five years in the penitentiary. Mr. Johnson says that Judge Clark in discharging these men said that as they were officers of the election they had a right to carry arms.

SHIRTWAISTS FOR CARRIERS.

Postmaster Bauhoff Defends His Plan for Summer Comfort.

Correspondence is passing between Postmaster Baumhoff and the postoffice department at Washington that will probably result in the shirt waist being adopted officially as a part of the summer uniform for postmen all over the United States.

When Mr. Baumhoff assumed charge of the St. Louis office in the summer of 1898 one of his first acts was to announce to the carriers that they might dispense with coats during the heated term. In the place of the coats they would be required to wear shirts of uniform pattern and they would be required to keep them clean.

Prior to this time it had been the custom of the carrier to leave off their coats whenever the weather was too hot for comfort, and the postmaster would wink at the violation of the postal order that carriers shall wear the familiar gray flannel coat at all times. Mr. Baumhoff issued a written order to this effect, thus taking all the responsibility on his own shoulders.

Cities in various parts of the United States took up the innovation without any order from the department. Yesterday Mr. Baumhoff received a letter from Washington asking where he got permission to issue such a permit and also asking him what kind of a garment he permitted his men to wear. The postmaster replied at length and made a strong plea in behalf of the shirt waist.

WOMAN HELD FOR CORONER.

Inquiry Into Death of John Farmer Will Be Made.

Mrs. Emma Farmer was arrested Monday at her home, 1727 North Elliott avenue, and will be held prisoner at the Four Courts until the coroner shall have decided the degree of her responsibility for the death of her husband, John Farmer, at the City Hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Farmer is the mother of six children. She struck her husband with a teacup on April 4 when he came home drunk and accused her of infidelity. He neglected the wound and erysipelas developed after Dr. Soraghan, 2601 Cass avenue, had treated the injury. He was then removed to the hospital.

The wife confesses the part she took in the affray, but says the blame rested with her husband.

WOODWORKERS' STRIKE ENDED.

Concessions Were Made by Both Sides and Good Feeling Prevails.

An agreement was reached Sunday between a committee representing the 500 woodworkers who have been on strike for two weeks, whereby the men will return to work Tuesday morning. The settlement was a compromise, the employers granting a part of the demands of the men.

The strike began March 26. Since that time no bitterness was exhibited between employes and employers. The men demanded an increase of 5 cents per hour. They had been receiving 25 cents. The manufacturers said they could not meet the demands of the workmen, because of too sharp competition. They did not want to employ nonunion labor, and were always willing to treat with their workmen. It is understood that the men will now work 9 hours and receive $2.50 per day.

WILLIAM E. JOHNSON DEAD.

He Was a Denver Millionaire Railroad Builder.

DENVER, Colo., April 8.—A dispatch from St. Paul, Minn., says that William E. Johnson, a millionaire mine owner of Denver, died last night in St. Joseph's Hospital in that city after two weeks' illness. The cause of death is unknown.

Mr. Johnson built the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad and at the time of his death was heavily interested in the Denver & Southwestern Railroad system, the new smelter at Florence and mines in Cripple Creek and other Colorado districts. He was about 50 years of age.

Rev. R. P. Johnston Resigns.

At Easter service Sunday Rev. Dr. R. P. Johnston, who has been pastor of the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues, for the past four years, announced his resignation. He will immediately leave for New York and assume the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, to which he was called last week. The latter is one of the wealthiest congregations in Gotham, the Rockefellers and Colbys being members.

DAYTON STREET POLICE COURT

Carles Williams and Tom Cross, colored, were defendants in a case Monday morning, in which Mrs. Hattie Stevenson of 1313 North Sixth street played an important role. A hatchet and a lump of coal were supplementary, and in a roundabout way, a bottle of whisky was a strong factor in the story.

Charlie Williams is what is known in the police vernacular as a "Grouch." Any time his friends want to borrow money and they come to Charlie—they don't get it.

Saturday night Mr. Williams, after a long absence working on the river, was seen in the rear of his favorite saloon. This occasioned some surprise—the fact that Charlie had been working. When he casually mentioned that he had $12 saved, his friend, Tom Cross, became alert.

He knew persuasion would never induce Williams to part with the money, so he attacked him at the point of least resistance—he bought Williams a drink. Then he bought bottle.

Mr. Williams said he felt a little better, and he would go out of his weight against any man in the ward.

Cross escorted Williams to the residence of Miss Stevenson, and there, it is alleged, he and his $12 were divorced on the grounds of incompatability of temper.

Williams threw a hatchet at Cross, and Cross threw a lump of coal at Williams. Each was fined $5.

Frank Coleman, colored, with his head high in the air, was co-defendant in the next case. It was not so much hauteur, as 'twas his high collar, that made Mr. Coleman look up.

Coleman is a martyr. Three years ago, he courted a young colored girl, but her father refused to stump up a dowry, and Coleman, being out of work, shifted his affections to another, keeping a prospective rainy-day in sight. He married the other.

For three years he never saw his former fiancee. But last Saturday night, at a dance at Loecke's Hall, Eleventh and Franklin avenue, Coleman once more beheld his erstwhile charmer. She greeted him as warmly as of yore. Too warmly, in fact, as he noted Mrs. Coleman got as red in the face as a woman of her complexion could possibly get.

"So glad to see ye, Misser Coleman," said she; "been a-axin' mahsef 'leben hun'red en 'lebenty-'leben times er day wen Ah goin' see agin."

"Go 'way fum heah, chile! Specs ye doan' see Mme. Coleman wi' dat umberella undah huh ahm ovah dah. Go 'way fum me."

And Mr. Coleman gave her a shove.

The girl's escort, Frank Howard, came up and demanded to know what Coleman meant by kicking "his lady" and stepping on her.

Just two minutes later Patrolman Kohrs separated and arrested the men. No razors were found. Howard was discharged, Coleman fined $5.

William Hatch, a colored butler at 3115 Washington avenue by day and professor of music, etiquette and dancing by night at Bell's Dancing Academy, Eleventh and Franklin avenue, was fined $5. Sarah Morrison, cook, at 2901 Washington avenue, was arrested with Hatch at Eleventh and Morgan streets, but was discharged.

When dancing professors confine their art to the hall; when the light fantastic toe trips over the waxen floor, there is hope to believe there'll be peace in the family, and police court dockets will be epitomized.

On the other hand, let the fantastic toe trip around Eleventh and Morgan streets, and anything from an up-to-date production of Spion Kop to a simple assault and battery is among the possibilities.

Mr. Hatch executed a few steps, and Miss Morrison executed a few steps at Eleventh and Morgan, the performances of which were precursory to cries of "murder." Whether it was the "steps" which were murdered, or whether the cries were the result of enthusiasm born of cocaine, and who cried murder, is one of the mysteries the police are still investigating.

Anyhow, when Officer Henderson searched Mr. Hatch, a razor dropped from the latter's sleeve. "Why hid you that razor in your bosom?" quoth Henderson.

"To shave with," said Hatch.

George Dietrich, a carpenter, got on a Spring avenue car early Monday morning. When the conductor carried him one block too far, which occasionally happens on the transit company cars, Dietrich got very angry.

Said he to Conductor Charles Castin: "Say, when did you get out?"

Castin thought he inquired when he got out of the penitentiary, so he became insulted, and in his vernacular, told the court he "took a punch" at Dietrich.

"Why, this is a huge joke," said Dietrich in court.

"What I was going to ask the conductor was: 'When did you get out of bed,' but he punched me before I could say 'of bed.'"

"The joke's on you," said Judge Wizlizenus. "$5."

DAILY STORIES FROM THE CITY HOSPITAL

William Fleming's exquisite sartorial taste landed him in the surgical ward Sunday.

He was standing in front of a theater at the matinee hour when a negro beau, wonderfully appareled, stopped to read the bills.

William's taste revolted against the startling raiment, and he emitted a laugh with a horsey inflection.

The colored Beau Brummell turned his eyes in the direction from which the laugh came and saw Fleming gazing at him in a derisive manner.

"What are you laughing at, man?" he inquired.

"I'm wondering if I couldn't use them pants as a checker board."

"Maybe you don't like them pants."

"No, I don't them pants," answered Fleming. "I also don't like that green coat with its yellow lining. The shirt is too loud. Your hat's out of date and your shoes have such funny shapes. You're about the worst I ever"—

But that was the end of Fleming's comment. The negro drew from his pocket a bright, keen razor that glittered in the sun for a second and then flashed against Fleming's body.

After wielding it twice the negro fled. When Fleming arrived at the hospital the doctors found that his right wrist had been carved up and his upper lip cut.

John Farmer of 1817 Elliot avenue died of erysipelas Sunday. He was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition three days ago. The coroner will hold an inquest over his body. The police say they have evidence that the man's skull was fractured by a billiard cue before erysipelas developed and the inquest is expected to throw some light on the circumstances.

TO BE BURIED TUESDAY.

Southern Hotel Fire Recalled by Death of J. G. Greer.

The funeral of James G. Greer, who died Sunday morning at his home, 2916 Pine street, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Church of the Redeemer. The burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Greer was a native of County Down, Ireland, and came to this country in 1833, when 6 years old. He was educated in the public schools of Jacksonville, Ill., and in McIntosh Institute at Griggsville, Ill. He first went into business in Alton, Ill., and in 1857 came from that city to St. Louis, entering the commission business with his brother, Robert C. Greer. Since retiring from this enterprise Mr. Greer has been in business only as a director of several concerns.

In 1877 Mr. Greer had a notable escape from death in the Southern Hotel fire, being rescued from the fourth floor by firemen.

"I'm Simply all Worn Out."

The story is the same, no matter what her station in life may be.

If she is one of the favored daughters of wealth,
If she belongs even to the realm of the "well-to-do,"
Or—
If she belongs to the unnumbered thousands who must work in order to live—

The story is just the same; all suffer from about the same cause, and in this suffering "peculiar to women," all reach the same level, and all are of the same family.

When a woman is nervous and irritable, head and back ache, feels tired all the time, loses sleep and appetite, has pains in groins, bearing-down sensation, whites and irregularities, she is not "worn out," but feels as if she were.

Such symptoms tell her that a womb trouble is imminent, and she cannot act too promptly if she values her future comfort and happiness.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., as thousands do.

MRS. KELLOGG'S STATEMENT.

MRS. GENIE KELLOGG

"One year ago I read a letter in a paper telling how much good one woman had derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had been sick all winter, and was nearly discouraged, as the medicine the doctor gave me did me no good. I had kidney complaint, leucorrhœa, itching, bearing-down feeling, and painful menstruation. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, describing my trouble, and soon received an answer telling me what to do. I followed her instructions and have taken nine bottles of Vegetable Compound and used one package of Sanative Wash and one box of Liver Pills. I am well now, do not have those sick spells at the monthly period, but can work all day, and that I never could do until I began taking the Compound. I cannot praise the Compound too highly.

"I do hope every suffering woman will learn of the Pinkham remedies and be cured as I have been. I wish all success to the Compound; it has done wonders for me, and I am so thankful."—Mrs. Genie Kellogg, Berlin Heights, Ohio.

SHOT BY HIS MOTHER.

William A. Gower May Die From Bullet Carelessly Fired.

William A. Gower, aged 21, was accidentally shot by his mother, Mrs. Marion Gower, Sunday, at their residence, 1330 Arsenal street. Dr. Frank Potter says the wound, which is on the left side of the head, may prove fatal. Mrs. Gower was arrested, but released after police investigation.

Mrs. Gower, according to witnesses, had playfully pointed a pistol at her son's head, and, with the remark: "Your money or your life," pulled the trigger. She thought the weapon was unloaded.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS

THE SEASON OPENS

FIRST BASEBALL GAME OF 1900 PLAYED IN ST. LOUIS.

LARGE CROWD AT BALL PARK

Two Mediocre Games Grought Out Good Crowds Sunday to Witness the Opening.

The inauguration of the baseball season locally took place Sunday, when the band of braves which are to have the distinction of wearing "St. Louis" conspicuously on their shirts, met the team from Indianapolis at League Park.

The local team started the season with a 12 to 10 victory, though it was much of the scratch order, the home aggregation batting out six runs in the eighth inning, after two men were out. A crowd of 2500 people witnessed the initial essay of the Cardinals.

At Athletic Park a fair crowd watched the Chicago and Milwaukee American League teams play a close game, which was finally won by Chicago, 2 to 1.

The game as far as St. Louis was concerned, was ragged, the men not working any too hard, owing to the early season and to want of practice.

The men juggled and muffed to the tune of 10 errors, and the pitchers lobbed them over the plate with a mere warming-up speed. The batting, however, had more of the dog-day appearance, 17 hits all told, being obtained by the Cardinals.

The crowd, which was unexpectedly large, did not care about the quality of ball offered. It went to examine the men and watch them work, and probably was agreeably surprised at the showing made by the local team. At all events they cheered the favorites of by-gone seasons to the echo, Breitenstein coming in for the chief honors with Donovan.

Then popular verdict of the fans after the contest seemed to be that St. Louis will do well for the season. Some of the new men bear out the promises of excellent work that have been made for them. Ryan, who received the slants of Breitenstein and Sudhof, was decidedly one of these.

Ryan, notwithstanding he has not been worked greatly in the catcher's position during the past year, performed in creditable style. He gets the ball down to second well and made no errors, either of commission or omission. Besides, he made three runs for the team and lined out a two-bagger.

King's work yesterday was a trifle weak, though it would be altogether unfair to attempt to criticize any of the participants in Sunday's pre-season affair. King was the only man of the local outfit who failed to make a hit out of five times up.

Padden was in form yesterday with the bat, at least, though a couple of errors are charged against his fielding record. Three hits, and needed ones, too, are credited to him.

The veterans did well considering the time of year. Heidrick let an easy one go and some loose work appeared in nearly every position. Wallace was brilliant, as usual.

Monday afternoon the two teams will play a second exhibition game at League Park. Powell and the members of the pitching staff who were not in the points Sunday will probably be worked out and O'Donnell, the Wellesville catcher, will do part of the receiving.

Even though it is early in the season, the local team will have to do better than 10 errors to win, even from Indianapolis. It is doubtful if the captain will permit the men to extend themselves, even if defeat is staring the team in the face, as a game or so lost now means nothing, but a good man or two laid up would be felt for weeks.

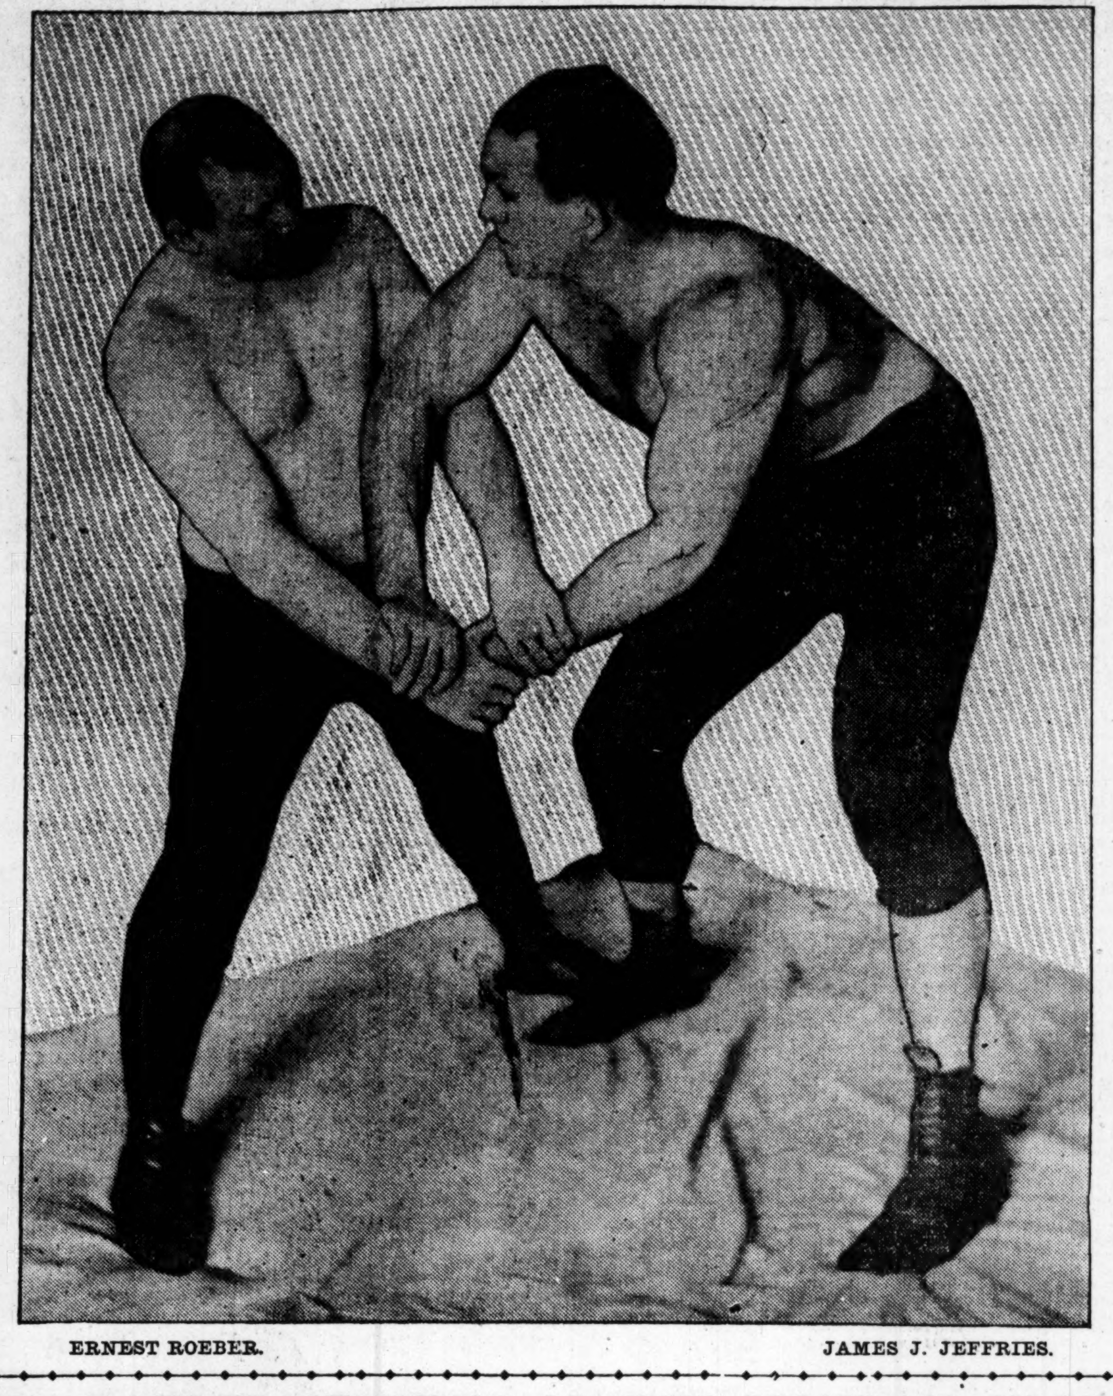
CHAMPION ROEBER PRACTICING WITH JAMES J. JEFFRIES



ERNEST ROEBER. JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

THE ROEBER-JENKINS MATCH MONDAY NIGHT

Greco-Roman and Catch-as-Catch-Can Champions of the World Will Contest at the Exposition Coliseum for the Highest Honors Obtainable in the World of Wrestlers.

Ernest Roeber, champion at that style of wrestling which, it is said, has been in vogue since the days of the Olympian games in Greece, and Tom Jenkins, champion of the more modern and more popular style known as catch-as-catch-can, will battle for the highest honors in the wrestling world of America Monday night at the Exposition Coliseum. The event is the most important in local sporting circles that the city has scheduled for years.

The men are unquestionably the class of the country, if not of the world. Yousoff is the only man who has been able to do anything with Jenkins, and he secured a fall from the latter only after a long struggle.

Roeber has been defeated by Jenkins and by Lewis, the Strangler, at catch-as-catch-can, but is premier at the Greco-Roman game.

He has had two matches with Yousoff, who is conceded to have been the greatest wrestler that ever appeared in this country. In the first contest Roeber was thrown off the mat after three minutes of struggle and injured so badly that he was unable to continue.

In the second affair the men wrestled 20 minutes, and were then interrupted by the police after a wrangle between the managers of the two men.

Roeber never had a satisfactory match with Yousoff after that and the question of supremacy has never been more than hinted at. Roeber, however, has defeated a number of other international champions, and recently wrestled the gigantic Frenchman, Pons, to a draw, after more than an hour's struggle.

Jenkins has, barring the defeat by Yousoff, an untarnished record of victories. He has been wrestling professionally for five years and has met all of the first-class men of the country. He is 11 years younger than Roeber and lacks the wide experience of the latter, but his youth will stand him in stead in the long and bitter struggle that will doubtless take place Monday night.

Jenkins appears to have a shade the better of physical characteristics. He is more symmetrically proportioned than his prospective opponent and is heavier and has a larger muscular measurement in every instance save in the forearm. He is remarkably fast, nor is it necessary to qualify the statement by the usual phrase "for so heavy a man." Jenkins is, in heavy-weight wrestling, what Corbett was in boxing, the fastest man in the business.

Jenkins himself is a fair sparrer, and but for an accident in his youth which deprived him of one eye would, according to his manager, have become a prizefighter and one of the best in the business.

Roeber is not so fair to look upon as Jenkins, but for wrestling his build is admirably suited. His weight, 191 pounds, is almost precisely that of Jenkins, but it is concentrated in his enormous back and trunk. He has almost no neck and the difficulty of securing the usual Nelson holds or a strangle hold is thus greatly increased. In activity he is hardly second to Jenkins and can wriggle out of seemingly chancery holds with the most astonishing facility. He resorts to all kinds of pyrotechnical acrobatics and shifts and changes his positions with kaleidoscopic rapidity.

Betting on the match has so far been light. Such as has been recorded favors Jenkins slightly, a fact which is due chiefly to the conditions of the match calling for the winner of the fastest bout to decide the style of the third fall, should one be neecssary.

It is the almost universal opinion that each man will secure the fall in the style that is peculiarly suited to him. Catch-as-catch-can is said to be a faster game than Greco-Roman, and it is therefore argued that Roeber has a shade the worst of it.

The match will be preceded by several exhibition affairs, and is scheduled to start at 9 promptly. A forfeit of $50 has been posted by the principals for their prompt appearance.

The prices will range from 50 cents to $3, the latter being on the floor at the ringside.

CRACK EASTERN RACE HORSES
TRAINING FOR BIG HANDICAP

Kinley Mack, Winner of the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps Last Year Heads the List of Favorites.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The racing season on the Metropolitan track will be ushered in at Aqueduct track one week from today. Kinley Mack heads the field of handicap candidates. He wintered exceptionally and is stronger and more lusty in wind and body than last season. His trainer has paid careful attention to his legs and to the naked eye they appear much better than they were when he won both the Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps. In the work asked of him so far he has not shown a trace of ailing in his "bad leg." He is receiving a slow, even preparation for the Brooklyn, which will be his first start of the year.

Ethelbert will hardly face the flag before the Suburban race. He may be given one or two spins in an overnight race to round him up thoroughly, but his real appearance of the year will be in the Suburban. Perry Belmont, his owner, is anxious to win this classic event, and the horse is receiving a special preparation for it.

Prince of Melbourne Is Rounding To.

Prince of Melbourne divided the honors of champion 3-year-old with W. C. Whitney's Kilmarnock last season. Mr. Beard's colt won a number of races and with big weight up. He won the rich Realization stakes in the mud after a hard race with Ildrim. He has improved considerably in appearance during his winter let-up and in conformation he is a fine type of horse. The Pines and Lakewood have been most beneficial to his health and he will strip sound in wind and limb at Gravesend for the opening of the campaign.

Imp will not be ready for the bugle call till late in the season. She is not engaged in any early stakes and her trainer will not get her ready till the latter part of the first Coney Island Jockey Club meeting. When Saratoga opens this mare will be in fine fettle. She has not taken on much flesh during the winter and her nervous system is receiving special attention.

Voter in Training for Metropolitan.

Voter, James R. Keene's crack sprinter, is training down at Brookdale, N. J. Like the majority of the Keene horses he has improved in looks during his let-up in training. He has all his old speed and is being galloped daily in order to get him in shape for the Metropolitan.

Of the three-year-olds entered in the big handicap Beau Gallant, Bellario and All Green are the most prominent. The first two are owned by Richard Croker, who bought them last fall after they had won a number of high-class races. Beau Callant had the distinction of heading Commander in the only race Mr. Keene's great colt lost. One time during the winter he was very sick, but he has now fully recovered and is taking regular exercise. He will not be a factor in the early races. He was not extensively engaged before Mr. Croker bought him and has only been recently entered in a number of stakes. Frank Brown, his trainer, is not hurrying him along, and will not start him much before Gravesend.

Treasure Put on Bellario.

Bellario is being "drummed" along in his work in order to get him ready for Morris Park. This game son of Belvidere is heavily engaged in a number of stakes and unless he breaks down, which is a remote possibility, he will start in a majority of them. His first effort will probably be in the Metropolitan Handicap.

All Green will start in the Metropolitan unless something unforeseen crops up. This colt has entirely recovered from the lameness that kept him from winning more races last year than he is credited with. He has worked well. He is fast, can carry weight and go a distance, and should the track be muddy his chance would be enhanced considerably.

A Fashionable Wedding Should Be heralded by fashionable wedding invitations. To insure correct form, order at Mermod & Jaccard's, society stationers, Broadway and Locust. 100 finest engraved cards and plates, $1.50; 100 finest cards from plate, $1.00.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY BRIEFLY TOLD

After a long course Monsoon won the all-age coursing stake at Pastime Park Sunday afternoon. May Herschel had all the advantage of the winner as she drew byes in every round save the final. Monsoon had little difficulty in disposing of Lord Cansettle and Boundless in the first rounds.

The shoot for the Dupont medal held Sunday afternoon at Dupont Park was won by William Baggeman from a field of 33 trapshots, the winners having a score of 21 straight kills. On the shoot at the first 10, 12 men qualified by making clean scores. In the shootoff three men went out on the first bird. Dr. Smith was the only one of the remaining contestants to follow Baggeman to the 10th bird, he failing on the 11th.

Kenyon and Dute Cabanne will shoot for the Mermod trophy next Sunday.

Terry McGovern is still arranging fights, notwithstanding he has already negotiated for two to be brought off at San Francisco soon. Terry's latest accommodation was to Frank Erne, whom he promised a return match to take place in Frisco after the McGovern-Gardner fight April 30. The Twentieth Century Club will secure the fight.

Kid McCoy and Peter Maher have had their matchmaking arrangements interfered with by the death of one of the latter's children. The fight is practically assured, though. O'Rourke is also trying to bring off a bout between Tommy Ryan and Kid McCoy.

Mike Mooney has been selected to referee the championship wrestling match at the Coliseum Monday night. Mooney is an eminently fair man and is thoroughly qualified to fill the position. He has the entire confidence of the principals of the affair and the choice should also prove popular with the audience.

Harvard has a pair trying for its baseball team that have attracted much comment. The names of the men are Carr and Pieper. The former is barely five feet high and the latter six feet four inches. The former is the star short fielder of the team and the latter is an outfielder. The Harvard team seems to be rather long on outfielders.

RULES ARE BEING FRAMED

High School Committee in Control of Public School League Will Meet to Complete Details Wednesday.

The committee of members of the High School Athletic Association in charge of the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League will hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon to pass on the rules now being drawn up by the sub-committee and to arrange a schedule for the season, and to decide on the scheme of organization of the league.

The discussion of the various subjects was completed Saturday and a decision is expected shortly after the opening of the meeting.

The league now numbers 26 teams and the chief difficulty is in arranging a schedule. Wednesday it will be settled whether sectional leagues will be formed or preliminaries played to decide which teams shall composed the league.

Amateur Baseball Notes.

The Little Cubans, through their manager, E. Quinlivan, 3432 School street, would like to arrange games with teams in the 12-year-old class.

The St. Teresa's Juniors have organized for the season with the following players: McNamara, Brannigan, Dwyer, Walsh, Buckley, Tierney, Rick, Robinson and King. Capt. W. Dwyer, 3646 Garfield avenue, is attending to challenges.

The Carrie Nations are still on the warpath. They are looking for the scalps of all teams whose members are not over 13 years old. F. Morelli, 4870 Alsace avenue, is manager.

The Pendleton Blues have completed the organization of their team, and are now ready to meet all comers in the 15-year-old class. Luke Finn, 4356 St. Ferdinand avenue, is manager.

Two ball players, who say they are good, would like to join a first-class team for the season. Information may be obtained of Charles Cohn, 2213 Mullanphy street.

The Monroes have again organized and will meet the O. K.'s in their opening game of the season, April 21. The Monroes would like to arrange other games with all first-class teams. Apply to 3506 Indiana avenue for particulars.

The Sunsets would like to hear from all teams in the junior division. For games address Frank Cuppy, 6113 Michigan avenue.

The Diamond signifies "Innocence" and is the birth-month gem for April. Solid gold Diamond Rings, $10 to $1000. Mermod & Jaccard's, Broadway and Locust.

LEAGUE IS TAKING SHAPE

Captains of Parochial School Teams Will Learn of Something to Their Interest if They Will Call at the Post-Dispatch Office.

Captains of teams entered in the Post-Dispatch Parochial League met Monday morning at the Post-Dispatch office. Those who were unable to be present are requested to call at this office some morning this week.

Another meeting will be announced for this week at some later day, and it is particularly requested that all those captains who were not at the meeting of last Saturday will put in an appearance then. It is important that no member be absent if he wants a voice in the proceedings, as final action on several important points will be acted upon.

No new entries have been received. The league contains 14 schools and the number of games to be played will be large.

It is the opinion of the majority of captains that it is not necessary to divide this number into two leagues, as has been suggested in order to diminish the number of games. All of the teams will continue their organization after the school season, and the season will be run well into the summer.

PLAYED A GOOD GAME.

Chicago and Milwaukee Teams Met at Athletic Park.

The Chicago and Milwaukee American League baseball teams gave a creditable exhibition of the national game at Athletic Park Sunday afternoon. They played one of the fastest nine-inning games on record, but one hour and twelve minutes being required to complete the game.

The game at League Park, notwithstanding the "hurry up" rules adopted this year, occupied one hour and forty-five minutes.

The Chicago team was finally successful, and won by a score of 2 to 1.

Comiskey's men were at their finest, and finished the game with not an error. Up to the ninth inning the Chicago's had one tally to none for the Brewers. In the last effort each team scored one run.

Scopec and Revoy did the pitching for the Chicagos, and Reidy, Husting and Dowling for the Milwaukees. All were in form. The total number of hits secured by the Windy City team was 6, by the Brewers 4. Milwaukee made 3 errors.
